A GHOST STORY.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, BY M. J. O'NEILL.

strange rumors were rife in old Gotham of late, That the ghost of a Thespian star Roamed through the Park's lobby in ghostly state, Whence he came from realms afar; And our Broadway was lined with a crowd each night, With faces much whiter than chalk; For places in front "Summer snappers" would fight, They yearned to see the ghost walk.

The paternal spirit of the classical Dane, Revisiting this dull old earth, Alongside the Park's ghost would give one a pain Or be a fit subject for mirth.

For many an actor stood there in the crowd, And I judged, as I heard them talk, That, e'en though his nibs was encased in a shroud, Twas pleasant to see the ghost walk. One poor barn brawler, fresh from a snide Summe snap, That repeatedly "threw him down,"

And made him walk home without counting the

And arrive on his uppers in town, Remembered that lately each salary day Proved a constant and ceaseless baulk And whether he'd cuss loud, or howl loud, or pray.
The manager's ghost wouldn't walk.

And 'tis said that the manager on the road Having read THE CLIPPER's report, Found his mind relieved of a terrible load. He discovered a last resort. He hied him to Gotham, engaged the poor sprite, On the strength of a game of talk, To appear once a week, about twelve at night, So his troupers could have a ghost walk.

But sad to relate of the poor snapper, who Used to visit the Park each night, When he heard the story, and found it was true, He fell into a terrible plight. Assured that the ghost disappeared from the Park, Poor brainless and moneyless gawk! He threw himself into the North River dark, Crying: "I'll make my own ghost walk."

L'ENVOI. The moral is plain, and as clear as the day, All snide snappers should heed it too, And not troupe with a manager who cannot pay, But is constantly on the "do." It's all very well to route shows on the map, And give people smooth "conning" talk, But 'twont pay when there is no "long green" in the snap, To "croak" just to make the ghost walk.

MAD IN MID AIR!

A "CANDY BUTCHER'S" THRILLING TALE OF THE OLD COUP SHOW.

WRITTEN POR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, BY R. B. HILL.

"Old shows are like like old friends-they never bore those who love them. And all of the old circuses and menageries that have pitched their tents for years in the various sections of this country still have their own special following."

The speaker was a man who ought to know some thing of the American tent show. He is known all through the West as happy, generous "Billy" Battee, and he is one of the oldest "candy butchers" in the country. He began his traveling life more than onty years ago with the Old John Robinson abination. He didn't own the candy privilege at first, by any means; but he was shrewd, wide awake and accommodating, and it was not many seasons after he hired himself to peddle peanuts and lemonade before he was hiring others.

"I've been with nearly all the best known shows, continued Mr. Battee, as we sat the other day in the reading room of a Cincinnati hotel, "and I've learned in these years that no one show, however big or well conducted it may be, can monopolize Different shows are popular in differsections of the country. Now, here in Ohio and on through Indiana and Illinois, the people would flock to old John Robinson's Circus, no matter if it only boasted one clown and a played out pad horse They've been going to this show all their lives, and would be hard to convince them that there is any thing grander on earth. When Van Amburgh was and his great animal exhibition struck into New York State and Pennsylvania, it caught all the half dollars that had long been saved up for that purpose. No other show could have drawn in se States like Van Amburgh's. The people of the South flocked to Forepaugh's and O'Brien's Shows, and those of Michigan, Iowa and the great North West seemed years ago 'dead stuck' on Coup's Cir cus. Of course, Barnum's big combination draw well anywhere.

"Six or seven years ago the people of Michigan went wild over Coup's Show, and we played there he entire season, canceling many dates in other lo calities.

So you were with Coup's Aggregation, then y queried, as the successful candy butcher ceased speaking and relapsed into a thoughtful mood.

Yes, I was with that show two seasons, and I'll tell you that speaking of those days brings to my mind some sad recollections. It also reminds me of a duty I have to perform here in Cincinnati." Heturned round and faced me suddenly. "Would you mind going out to Walnut Hills to the insane asylumn with me this afternoon?" he asked.

course I was somewhat surprised at the abruptness and nature of his question; but, seeing in his eyes that he was much in earnest, and having nothing on hand for the day, I told him that I would

"All right," then said Battee, arising. "I've some little things to look after this morning. Say you meet me here at one o'clock this afterno you to see the person on whom I intend to call, then maybe I'll tell you a curious story that happened when I was with the Coup Show over

When we started for the asylum that afternoon my friend, the candy man, was loaded down with packages, some of which he gave me to carry. At the institution for the insane we were ushered into a neat little reception room, while an attendant went to bring out the patient whose name had been pronounced by Battee. In fifteen minutes the door opened and the man appeared. He was tall and thin, with an intensely black mustache covering his trembling lip. I have noticed that nearly all of the hopelessly insane have a pitiful tremble about their lips and the corners of their mouths.

My friend arose as the gaunt maniac entered, and walking fearlessly up to the man held out both his hands. "How are you, Richard?" he said, and their blood curdling act. No other then, noting that there was no responsive gleam in have ever seen could have done it.

kind, however. It was frank, honest, captivating.
"What shall I say of his companion? That she was marvelously beautiful? It would not be enough. She was transcendently glorious. No man living could describe that wondrous face, with its pink and white color, its great eyes, that could be soft and innocent as the eyes of kine one moment, as sharp, glittering and fatal as these of serpents the next. Like her male companion, she was the personification of grace. There was poetry in her every movement. And there were the fearlessness and daring of the very devil in her nature.

"She was evidently the proper person to assist in their blood curdling act. No other woman whom I fro, her great eyes gleaming, her golden hair float-ing, her beautiful breast heaving. "Then, with another curious little cry she let go the bar, which went dangling madly back and forth, and her beautiful white body, like a line of gleaming silver, shot upward and onward through

She arose in the air just as a strong winged bird arises, and with the same steadiness of purpose and grace of movement, she flew toword her goal-the strong, iron grip of the outstretched hands of Ranletti, her husband and her partner in this most au-dactous of acts.

"In another second she was seated by his side on the upper trapeze, and they both were smiling and before leaving the more civilized portion of the State, I sent most of my funds, including Ranlett's deposit, on to my bank at Chicago.

"The daring and dangerous nature of the act which the athlete and his wife performed just suit-ed the taste of the rough backwoodsmen. 'The Raniettis, as the bills announced them, continued the stars par excellence, as they had been in the more cultured community. Business was booming, too. The candy butcher's harvest is just in such sections as this. The people are not so fashionable that they dread to patronize us. Indeed, should a young fellow in an extremely rural place neglect to buy his best girl all of the various kinds of refreshments which the candy butchers purvey, he would be set down as a boor.

"So I continued to coin dollars ail through the early part of the Summer, and never once noticed how changed my friend Ranlett was growing. He sometimes would bring me a roll of money, take my receipt and go way without speaking half a dozen words. He bought as much cendy as ever, though, and I suppose this was one reason why I was blind to the alteration in him. I guess it is a pretty general rule in this world that if people continue to eat candy and pie we think they're all right.

"He walked up to my counter one Saturday night, and threw down a roll of bills. It was at Saginaw. We had come back into civilization again. 'Hilly,' he said, in a slow, solemn kind of voice, 'I guess that'il be about the last money I'll ever trouble you to keep for me '

It was then that I, for the first time, noticed that my friend was not the same man he was when I first made his acquaintance. He was white in the face, his cheeks were sunken, and I noticed a nervous tremor in his long, finely made hand, as he lifted it to stroke his mustache. I feared he had be-gun to drink. If so, his death knell as an athlete was struck. But I only answered: 'Well it won't be necessary for you to give it to me any longer, Dick; we've got out of the woods now, and it will be as safe with you as with me.'

"'I mean that I won't earn any more with this show, old fellow, he replied, 'I make my last appearance on Monday night.'

"I had little time to question him, but succeeded in ascertaining that his wife was to remain a short in ascertaining that his wife was to remain a short with the show. I told him I didn't believe I could have his money ready for him by Monday, but he only smiled and answered that he didn't want it. Put this to it, he said, indicating the roll he had thrown on my counter, 'and you'll get a letter of instruction from me before long.'
"I couldn't find him on Sunday, and he wasn't at the hotel or show grounds on Monday when we opened at a little town near Saginaw. I worried considerably over not being able to find him. The ring master came out to me after the performance had begun on Monday night, and wanted to know if I could tell him where 'Ranietti' was. I couldn't, of course. I followed the ring master back into the show, and we went to the dressing room. It was just ten minutes before my friend's act was due. His wife was already dressed. She said she hadn't seen Dick since the previous Saturday night, but she didn't appear worriettor disconcerted. She was not that kind of a woman. At length, as we stood there surmising and conjecturing, the canvas flaps of the little room were thrown aside and in rushed the man of whom we had been speaking. He was pale and sick looking, but he was strictly sober. That I noted, as he rapidly disappeared into the little private apartment used by him and his

"He had three minutes exactly in which to dress and be on the trapeze

"When he and his wife made their entree, they were on time, and were received with the usual ac-clamations of the multitude. I didn't often go into the circus to see any act, but somehow I was im-pelled to remain until my friend had gone through with his dangerous performance on this night. It was his last appearance with our show, for one thing, and then I will not deny that I had strange, indefinable premonitions of coming evil, with which he was indissolubly connected. "The great audience watched with pleased attention while the Raniettis went through their minor feats. Then, as the acrobats prepared for their great crowning triumph of nerve and muscle, a mense tent.

"Eva was as charming as gay, as connettish as ver as she arranged for the mighty leap. As she prettily used her shimmering little spider's web of a handkerchief, she managed to adroitly fleck a saucy kies down to the thousands whose waiting hearts were beating hard and fast. When she gave her usual glance upward and over the airy expanse which her phenomenal flight must span, her eyes sought in vain to gain sympathetic recognition from man who was literally to hold her Afe in his hands.

"I, perhaps, of all those thousands of spectators who gazed upward with feverish interest at this critical moment, was the only one who noticed this slight variation from the usual methods of these famed athletes. And my heart sank like lead when I saw it.

The next thing that I can recall in the drama of that night was seeing the beautiful, white, symmetrical body of that gloriously formed woman sweeping like a silver flash onward through the silent air, her golden mane flowing, her luminous eyes glowing like stars.

mehow reminded me of a gruesome soughing of pine trees that had frightened me when a boy.
"The stilled hearts of the people stopped beating when that great, awful shudder escaped their lips!

"The flashing hands of the queenly woman had missed the strong grip of the sinewy fingers of the man!

"The Venus like white body was shooting straight to earth!

"I turned away my head, but I could not close my ears to the sickening sound which announced that the flight of the beautiful body was over. Directly I turned again toward the ring. People were rushing to where the prostrate form of the woman lay, but my eyes traveled upward.

"Great God! Raniett was still hanging there, his head down, his feet firmly twisted about the trapeze ropes above!

the madman's eyes, he picked up a couple of the smaller packages, and, extending them, said:

The glace like film over the man's deadened eye balls was pierced by a momentary gleam of intelli-gence when the word "candy" was uttered; the of a smile flickered for an instant about the dried and quivering lips, and he held forth a lean, claw like hand. Once possessed of the packages he tore away the covers and began munching the French confections ravenously. We sat and ratched him and let him eat.

Presently all the candy contained in the two papers was devoured, and then my friend, Battee, grasped the man's hands and spoke sharply, sternly 'Richard! you know me! why don't you But the only answer he received was the mum

'She is dead! She is dead!

For fully ten minutes Battee endeavored to gain recognition from his demented friend. But it was no use. The man seemed not to understand any beyond the fact that the candy and fruit given him were sweet and good to his taste. When we left he gave no sign whatever that the tedium of his asylum life had been interrupted by our visit. He was utterly oblivious to all that was going on

I dined with my friend the "candy butcher" that evening, and he told me the following tale of his tion with the maniac

"I had never heard of this poor fellow until I had been with the Coup Show about a year. Then one evening, while we were at Detroit, my partner told me that a great new act would be performed that night, and that I must not miss it. He said that two amous South American athletes had been secured by the 'old man,' and that they would perform most wonderful acrobatic act ever attempted in this country. My curiosity was so thoroughly aroused that I went in to view the debut of the new stars.

"Their act took my breath away. They were a man and a woman. The man was tall, shapely, sin-uous as a snake, smiling and handsome. His smile was not of the set, stereotyped before the public rapeze, swung higher than I have ever known be fore or since in any show with which I have been connected. One of these swinging bars was hung at the right of the ring, the other at the extreme left. The bar at the left was hung at an altitude of some fifteen feet beneath the one at the right.

'Between the two dangerous perches there yawned an abyssmal distance of fully eighty feet.

"It was a tremendous, an awful span for a delicate girl to cover, and when the details of the pertiou act were first explained to me I shuddered inwardly and vowed that I would never gaze upon a perfo ance which smacked so terribly of dare devil reck

But when, night after night, from my headqua ters in the menageric department. I heard the tu multous roarings of the frenzied audiences after this act had been successfully accomplished, I a last screwed up my courage and determined to wit ness that over which everybody was going wild So, one night at Lansing I saw the Raniciti's per form. They were the most beautiful acrobats I had that I would not again willingly see the concluding portion of their performance. Ranletti, the man hung by his feet, head downward, from the highe trapeze at the extreme right of the ring; Madam Ranletti, the woman, swung jauntily and airily for a moment, seated on the bar of the lower perch.

"For a few seconds after she had touched he pouting red lips with the misty, delicate shred of lace which she then dexterously thrust into her cor sage, the thousands of upturned eyes saw he upward and across the gaping eighty feet of space that divided her from her undulating hus band, whose black, shining eyes, as he swung head down in space, were fixed tenaciously upon her glowing face. Then, with a shrill little shriek that how, counterfeit as I knew it to be, cut like sharp steel to my heart, she slid from the bar, grasping it with her beautiful, but sinewy hands, as sh

"A few nights after this Ranletti came to my chief stand, and wanted to buy some French con fectionery. I did not have any, but agreed to go it for him. Thereafter I kept on hand a supply of the best candy for him and his wife. They both liked sweets, but I soon ascertained that the man was inordinately fond of confectionery. He became quite intimate with me, and told me his right name was Richard Ranlett; that, as quite a young man, he had gone to South America, where he had traveled with various shows. He had met his wife two years previously in Peru, and, she being a young widow and attached to the same combine vances. They had married, and practiced to per fection the great act which was now in this country vinning them gold and reputation.

"As time wore on, this acrobat and I became warm personal friends. He was a noble fellow, with a consuming passion for his lovely wife. She, on the other hand, was not so deeply in ove. Anybody could see that. She loved appl attention, life, dress. Raniett received a very large weekly salary, and he told me that he always tossed his money into his wife's lap on pay day, and told her to take what she wished. He knew that I always had large sums in my possession, and I suppose he thought his property would be safer with me. Men were reckless, and in many cases savage, when liquor was flowing freely, and so "It could not have been mere than two seconds that I struggled to recover my voice, which had left me, but it seemed many minutes. At last I could speak, and I shrieked out in tones that rose high above all the clamor and confusion that reigned in that howling pandemonium of horror and fear: "Go back! Get on the bar! For God's sake, blck, save your life!"

"He heard me—I know he heard me—and I believe he understood me. He folded his strong arms across his breast, and, glancing for an instant my way, he said in a low, quiet voice: 'She is dead, Billy, she is dead!"
"And then another shriek went up from the people: the trapeze, freed of the man's weight, oscillated gently to and fro, and another white clad body dashed madly downward to the sawdust track!

"The people made a mad rush for the open air. They were crazed, panic stricken.
"A boy-Ranielt's dresser—came running up to me with a letter in his hand. 'He told me to give it to you tomorrow when he was gone,' panted the boy, 'but you'd better take it now.'

"The woman was not badly hurt; she had failen on the sawdust, and her side had come in contact with the ground. Her shoulder was dislocated.

"My friend Raniett struck fairly on his head. He was unconscious for many days. When he came out of his state of coma he was a maniac. Mild, harmless, but incurable—his mind gone forever.

Late on the night of the catastrophe, as I sat by his bedside, I read the note he had written me and which his boy had delivered. I have read it so often that I know it by heart. This is what my noble, self sacrificing friend wrote:

FRIEND BILLY.—I am in deep trouble, and must wander away and hide it. Eva, my darling Eva, must leave me. Her first husband was not dead. He has written her. He met with an accident and recovered. He is now wealthy, and Eva chooses to go to him. Perhaps she is right. This is a hard life, Glive her all the money if she wishes it. If she don't, keep it for me. I must get as far from her as possible. God blery you, old friend.

"And Evs., his wife?" I asked.

"Oh, she is in South America with her first husband."

pand."
There was another question trembling on my tongue, but I could not frame my lips to speak the words. My friend, the candy butcher, must have divined it. He is a remarkably intelligent man considering the meagre advantages he possessed in worth.

youth.
"Dick Raniett was entirely guiltless, I am sure," he said slowly; "he never intended to hurt the woman he was losing. He was weak from loss of sleep and from trouble. In my opinion, he was mad when he mounted the trapeze that night."

The Park Theatre, St. Paul, Entirely Destroyed by Fire.

(Special Dispatch to the New York Clipper. St. Paul., July 7.—The Park Theatre caught fire early morning of 5, and is now a blackened mass of ruins. The Fire Department had all it could do to prevent the flames spreading to adjoining buildings. The damage on the theatre is over $30,000, and on stage properties $5,000. It is mostly covered by in-surance. The Park was built by the Turner Society, twelve years ago, at a cost of $28,000, and was known as Turner Hall ufful 1887, when Trask, Whitemore & Walker secured a ten years' lease of the hall and remodelled it. It was then called the People's Theatre, and remained such until the People's Theatre Stock broke up in 1889. Then the building was sublet to the late Patrick Harris, and called Harris' Theatre. After Mr. Harris' death the executors threw up the sublease. Some months ago Mr. Trask changed its name to that of the Park. Bome Day.

Some day I think you will be glad to know That I have ever kept you in my heart, And that my love has only deeper grown In all the time that we have lived apart. Some day, when you have slipped away from care, And idly fall to dreaming of the past, And sadly think of all your life has missed—Will you remember my true love at last? Or will it come to pass, some dreamy night, After a day that has been hard to bear—When you are weary, heartsick and forlorn, And there is none to comfort and to care—That you will close your tired eyes and dream of tender kisses falling soft and light, Of restful touches smoothing back your hair, And sweet words spoken for your heart's delight? Perhaps, then, you'll remember and be glad Some Day.

Perhaps, then, you'll remember and be glad
That I so long have kept you in my heart,
And that your soul's true home will yet be there,
Although we wander silent and apart. MANJ

FANNING'S TRAINED ANIMAL SHOW IS reported to have played in hard luck since its start from Jacksonville, Pla., several months ago. Salary day came with great infrequency, while fly by night moves to escape greedy constables were of frequent occurrence. Matters came to a crisis June 25, at moves to escape greedy constables were of frequent occurrence. Matters came to a crisis June 25, at St. Louis, Mo., when several of the performers visited Judge Hart's court, and filed attachments against the show for back salary. Constables llyde and Bejorne placed a detail of watchmen. It oguard the property, and let the show continue. On 27, Mr. Fanning went to Judge Hart's court and deposited $200. This resulted in the withdrawal of the watchmen. Then he attempted to spirit away all the property under attachment He had succeeded in getting four car loads of stuff down on the railroad iracks as far as Salisbury Street, when Constable Hyde, who had gotten wind of his movements, swooped down on him. On 28, some person who had an unsatisfied claim against the show succeeded in getting eleven trained horses, which he carried over to East St. Louis. These have not yet been recovered. When the collapse appeared inevitable, J. B. Long, the agent of the company, filed attachments amounting to $350. His example was followed by the other members of the company, and, as a resuit, $1,400 worth of attachments were registered. Constable Hyde now has a large sized circus on his hands.

A CHICAGO DISPATCH of June 30 states that Eugene Godard and Pillas Pinas, the French aeronauts, came near being detained as common laborers imported under contract. They came to this country under contract to a Chicago company to operate a captive balloon, and when they went to the Custom House on that date to secure the entry of their balloon free of duty as among the "tools of their trade," Immigrant Inspector Lester took them in tow, and questioned them as to their business. After looking up the law, he came to the conclusion that aeronautics is an art, and that aeronautics is an art, and that aeronauts are professors—a class not subject to the provisions of the contract labor law. He will, however, report the case to the authorities at Washington. The balloon was admitted free.

Notes from Witherell. & Dour's "U. T. C." Co.—We are now in the seventh week of our season, and business has been excellent from the start. The past three weeks we have been among the Adirondacky. Our enthusiastic fishermen, Montgomery, Downle and R. H. Porter, have made it lively for the finny tribe, their largest catch being on June 29. Mrs. George E. Witherell will soon rejoin the company, having recovered from her recent illness. Little Fanchon Witherell will accompany her. Our version of the drams is taking nicely, and the concert is a great "go." Johnny Downle and Charles Brickwood are on the ends, and those two old timers make things hum, while Little Georgie Pearl's songs and dances are a decided hit. Prof. R. H. Porter, mail agent of this company for the past three seasons, received his annual present from Geo. E. Witherell, recently. It came this time in the shape of a beautiful meerchaum pipe. Our mounted parade is as strong a card as ever. Barnes and Brickwood have a handsome pair of grays, while Johnny Downle's trained stailion, Napoleon, attracts more than passing notice. Lattle Georgie Pearl is our Evs.

Cart. Jarrus Baker, of Chester, Pa., died June 25, of dropsy, aged seventy-eight years. Capt. Baker was the first man who organized the steam tug service at New York, Philadelphia and Boston. He chartered several vessels for the Government. At one time he was the owner of valuable guano islands, and was also engaged in the su, ar rednery business. He was a promiticent member of the Masonic fraternity, and also a noted member of the God Fellows. He was interred in tace cemetery of the latter organization 29. Capt. Prof. Bruce, the parachute jumper, made an ascension at Cloquet, Minn., July I, to a height of nearly nine hundred feet, but courd not let go, on account of the fog. The balloon fell to within forty feet of the ground and began to roll around, dragging the professor with it. He was finally dashed against the Swedish Church roof, lost his hold and fell to the ground. He escaped with slight injuries. The talcoon was recovered across the river.

NOTE FROM THE BARNUM-BAILEY SHOW.—While taking down the cook tent at Dover, N. H., June 30, John Lawson, aged wenty-lour, assistant cook, was struck on the head with a centre pole and knocked in Scholars and the second of the prosperson season through Central and South America, and emphalically denies the statements frequently made of sickness in those countries. He is nere now to engage people for his next tour south, which begins early in October. His company, he says, will be the largest he has ever taken south, and his exhibition will be enurely different from any attraction that has ever left these shores for South America. Both men are looking well.

The STEK FAMILY, bicyclists, sailed from Panama June 24 for this city, having completed a successful three years' tour of Australia and South America.

A CLIPPER CORRESPONDENT'S perilous balloon ascension on the giorious Fourth is interestingly told of in our Boston, Mass., letter.

The First advertising car and the first circus bill boards ever in the Black Hills were recently introduced by King & Franklin's Show, which will exhibit at all the principal cities in the Hills.

THE MILLIE CHRISTINE CO., under the management of P. R. Biltz, has secured dates at the following fairs: McArthur, Portsmouth, Chillicothe and Carthage, O. Billy Pond, of the E. O. Rogers Circus, has signed to assist in lecturing.

Notes from Dick's Circus.—We are now in our ninth week, and have had a prosperous season, but the roads have been something terrible. Our first blow down of the season occurred at Ogden, ia. Everything went down just as 'he afternoon show was about to take place, but we husfled and gave a performance to big business. Everybody is well, and the spectre in white walks weekly. Our performers: Retiaw and Alton, Stone Bros., Cunningham and Moncayo, Prof. J. W. Kennedy, Luis Moncayo and Prof. Meyer's school of educated horses. Our sideshow is run by Senator Frank B. Norges Prony Toxo & Medden's Pavillon of Wonders.—Since our opening we have met with marked success, and, in spite of rain for nearly three weeks, we have been playing to big business. Del Varneo was called home June 10 to attend the funeral of his father, rejoining one week later. A Vinton, is., we had a pleasant visitor in H. W. Mo-Geary, of the Forepaugh advertising brigade.

J. R. MARBHALL, manager of the Samoans, whose case was referred to in last week's CLIFFER, states that the care extended to them has always been the best, and that they are not in the sad condition of cothed in sundry daily newspapers. One of the group has recently been admitted to Bellevae Hospital, this city, as a consumptive patient. Three of the original nine are now left in the party. Mrs. Marshall produces receipts to show that he has dealt squarely by his people.

The weather was very bad, with a high wind, and occasioned rain and hail, but notwithstanding this and a drive of 41 miles, Jas. Williamson and Joseph Piant posted the enormous amount of 1,270 sheets, and had they not run short of paper, 300 sheets more could easily have been added, making the total 1,570 sheets. Joseph Piant is a mere boy, twenty years of age. The work was done from 7.30 a. M. to 8.30 P. M. On the same day, with the same kind of weather, at Rochester, N. We have had only a few days' rain and no serious accidents. In fact, the season thus far has been the most pleasant this show has ever had. Since opening we have added three carsone fist, one stock and one beautiful Pullman, making three sleepers altogether. Railroad men say our train is the best they ever handled, the fisis and stocks being all new. John Kent joined June 29 and will take charge of the train.

Walter L. Main and the New England public are being imposed upon by bogus agents. A couple of weeks ago a man, under the name of Smith, contracted for supplies at Weymouth, Mass., and later, some one, under the name of Smith, contracted for feed, lot, license, etc., at Fitchburg, and borrowed money of the livery man. Last week Mr. Main was informed by Manager J. C. Rockwell that a man contracted at Mannchester, N. H., for the show to open there July 13. He collected money for advertising programme, and registered as Walter W. Woodward. Business Manager Geo. S. Cole writes that a former groom with the advance did lots of swindling in this way through New Jersey and Pennsylvania last season, and that a fellow from Worcester, with a name something like Leelber, also contracted for the coming of the show at Rockland, Me., and other places in that vicinity. The manager Gole has advised Mr. Rockwell to have the latest fraud arrested, if possible, and held until he can appear against him. No persons are authorized to contract for the Walter L. A LITTLE BOY named Johnny Eaton was killed by an elephant at Manhattan Beach, near Denver, Col., July 5. Children were allowed to ride on the elephant's back, and he was on his third return trip with eight children, when a balloon was started up. The animal became frightened at the baloon and began trumpeting and running about, making desperate efforts to unseat the children. They all fell off, and all escaped uninjured but young Eaton, who was caught under the elephant's feet and was crushed to death. The keeper of the elephant then stuck a pitchfork into the animal's trunk, and was thrown high in the air by the enraged brute, but was not seriously hurt. By this time several other attendants had arrived, and managed to secure the elephant with chains.

OUR PAducah, Ky., letter gives an account of the blow down of Terrell Bros. Circus, and mentions the closing of Costello & Oatman's Show.

NOTES FROM SPARKS & ALLEN'S CIRCUS.—This show has been doing a flue business since the opening. George Gregory joined June 9, at Mt. Holl Springs, Pa. He is working on the triple horizontal bars better than ever. His doubles from the bars make a big bit. He is working in connection with his brother, Charles. Seeman and Burke made their first appearance in their new perch act, at Marietta, June 18, and scored an instantaneous hit. The Fourth of July at Delta, Pa., was a big affair, the tents being packed to the ring banks at each performance. The Fourth was also Charles Gregory's birthday. He did not forget the "boys," and had liquid refreshments served to all hands. Evidently he was not forgotten, for, at the conclusion of his barrel act (which closes the show), at night, Sig. Nevaro stepped forward, and, in a neat speech, presented him, in behalf of the company, with a fine gold watch and chais. Mr. Gregory was completely taken by surprise, but finally recovered his wind," and responded in good shape. Everybody is well and happy. Everything is running smoothly, and the spectre in white perambulates with great regularity.

The show's boating season closes Aug. 22, when the company will begin a tour of nine weeks by wagon. Thompson and Duclos and Clarence Rummell closed at Syracuse, N. Y., in order to prepare for their engagement with Barlow Bros.' Minstrela. Dot Blendenger joined July 4. Manager Sautelle is making arrangements to send out a speciality company and parlor circus early in October. James B. Swafford will continue as agent.

The DUCROWS-Mile. Beliotta and Louie—arrived from South America July 6, after a successful tour with Frank A. Gardner's Circus.

The Nettie Mobris Paradox Co., which has been playing to good business in halls and operahouses, went under canvas for the tenting season at Claremont, N. H. The roster of the company is: Prof. Morris, director; Nettle Morris, controller; W. A. Kimball, general agent; F. A. Harriman and B. C. Powers, assistants; G. M. Markly, C. O. Turner, H. B. WEST VIRGINIA.

Wheeling.—The hot weather attractions received a goodly share of attention last week, and prospects are good for their continuance. There was no celebration here July 4. Most of our people went to the parks and other places.

WHEELIND PARK.—The Opera House Orchestra continues. The concert at night, 4, assisted by a fireworks display by the Park Association, draw out the largest crowd ever seen there.
BELINDST PAIK.—Prof. Zera, the magician, in an exposure of spiritualistic tricks and demonstrations in hypnotism and magic, was the attraction last week. The Italian Great Western Band furnished the concert programme.

UTAH.

Salt Lake City,—Thatcher's Minstrels had big houses at the Sait Lake Theatre June 21, 22. Mestayer and Vaughn had empty seats 23. "The Bottom of the Sea" closed the season 21, to rather light business. Wonnerfland could be season July 4. It will reopen Aug. 22. Business is lair. Feuple for closing week: Sol Stone, Prof. Cook, Reinhart Family and the Parislan Embroiderers.
FRANKLIN AVENUE—Mike Tracey, Emery and Russell, Zoyarra. Dollie Merton, Leondor Brothers and the stock. The addition of new people has improved business much. SELLE BROS. CIRCUS is billed for July 16, 17.

Orden.—At the Grand Opera House, 'The Bottom of the Saa' June 24 had fair business. Mestayer 4 Yaughn's 'Grab Bag' 25 had a poor house. The house is closed until July 13, when Vernona Jarbeau comes, followed 16 by 'Men and Women.'

RHODE ISLAND.

Providence.—Business was good the past week. The celebration of the Fourth brought an immense throng of visitors to the city, who crowded the regular places of amusement afternoon and night, in a lite of the many other attractions incident to the day, and it is aske to say that the week was one of the most profitable since the opening of the Summer season. At Lothrop's Providence Museum, Lothrop's Boston stock closed a successful two weeks' engagement in "A Strange Marriage" July 4. The company open at the Grand Museum, Boston, 6, for three weeks, after which the members will take a much needed rest until Aug 57, excetor, Mass., Opera House, opening in "Queens," thomas and Watson, at the head of a strong company, began an engagement July 6, opening in "Thompson's Dead" and "Our Baby." Wm. Stafford, Healy and Coatello, Addie Phillips, Brown and Harrison, Joe Haydon, Queen Heatherton and others also appeared.

RANS SOCCI GARDEN.—"Lattle Lord Fauntieroy" proved such a strong attraction last week that Manager White decided to re-engage the company for this week. Week of 13, Any Lee in "The Yillipper."

A strong attraction last week that Manager White decided to re-engage the company for this week. Week of 13, Any Lee in "The Yillipper."

A with every indication of a prosperous season. On the Fourth the attendance was immense. The patrons are provided with every comfort and convenience, and all are shown the attention that they might expect at any first class theatre.

Notics.—Manager Geo. R. Lothrop has decided to postpone the remodeling of the Providence Museum until next Summer. Workmen are now engaged in making alterations and repairs, and the house will be put in fine stage is to be considerably enlarged and provided with an entire new stock of scenery. The settees in the gallery are to be replaced with comfortable opera chairs. All seasis in the house will be numbered and every ticket will have a numbered coupon attached. The house is to be repaired, redecorated and refurnished with new carpets throughout. A first class orchestra will be provided next season, and two performances only will be given each day. H. Percy Meldon Will have general appreci regular places of amusement afternoon and night, in gite of the many other attractions incident to the day

MONTANA. MONTANA.

ITelena.—At Ming's Opera House, Newton Beers comes July, 3, 4 in "Lost in London" and "Enoch Arden." The cancellation of the Butte dates necessitated a change here from June 26, 27 to July 3, 4. Vernona Jarheau comes 9, 19, 11. The redecoration of Ming's Opera House is being pushed, and already it begins to look clean and bright. Steam heating apparatus, electric lights and entirely new dressing rooms will greatly add to the comfort and convenience of its patrons. A. O. Richards, stage carpenter, who was severely burned about two weeks ago, through the ignition of some matches in his pocket, has almost received. He will carry a sear the remainder of his life, ... Liberati, the cornelist, assisted by a local orchestra, is giving open air concerts at the Broadwater Summer resort here. He is under contract with Col. Broadwater, the proprietor, and will remain until 15. He proves to be quite a serd, as large crowds attending the contract of the Collecum Theatre's Murray and Weldon and Della Vernall. The old favorites remain over. If reports are true, this establishment will have a new business manager in the person of Tom Beeson. Nick Williams, who has hitherto managed the business for Mrs. J. Hensley, leaves, after filling that position for more than a year.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Vashington.—The giorious Fourth brought our operatic and variety season to a sudden close at the houses which had continued open up to that date. Outside amusements in the shape of moonlight excersions on the river, but weather, etc., militated against paying houses for good attractions, and it was thought best by them to close. The Globe Theatre, after a prosperous season of three years under the managerment of Roop A Nopper, closed its doors July 4 forever, and will now be torn down, together with all the other buildings on the entire square, to make room for a new city post office. The building has been used as a variety house or dime museum for upward of thirty years past, and during that time has been known as Metropolitan. Hall, Jake Budd's. Sneilbaker's, Johnson's Dime Museum and the Globe Theatre, and there are few of the older members of the variety profession now on the stage who have not, at some time, appeared upon its boards, many of whom are now bright luminaries of the legitimate, operatic or variety stage. By these, the information that the receive of some of their earlier arriggles. The last bill sembraced: Prof. Coffees, Florence Emmett, Will G. Mack, Lottle Day Coffree, Al. Emmett Fostell, Lottle and Joe Miller, manager. The dates for the reopening of our several houses are not yet definitely settled upon, but will be about as follow: Rapley's two houses—the National Theatre and the Academy of Music—and Albaugh's Grand Opera House, Sept. 1; Harris' Bilou and Kernan's Lyceum, Aug. 23. The besenet to John E. Buckingham, the veteran doorseeper at Albaugh's Grand Opera House, June 30. was a success in every way. The immense auditorium was accessed in every way. The immense auditorium was differed the house of the profused at the Union Square Theatre about Espt. 1. Miss Lewis was obliged to decide this by reason of her prior engagement with Mr. Litt.

San Antonio .- At the Washington Theatre July 6: Prof. Clark, Susie Cook, Carlson Sisters, Prof. Trevino, Howard and Fisher. Lillie Dryden, Jennie Pauline, May Braddon, Adolph Gonzales, Minnie Russell, Necko and Pachita, Gertie Flynn and Patricio Gutriez.

[TO BE CONTINUED.] R. M. Field, manager of the Boston Museum, sailed for Europe July 1. Mr. Field was one of the first American managers to cross the Atlantic as a purchaser of English and French plays in manuscript. His first trip for this purpose was made in 1870, and since then the Boston Museum has enjoyed a reputation abroad, as well as at home, as being second to no theatre in America.

En Passant. I wonder if she knew
When I passed by?
Under the gaslight, hurrying home,
My roving eye
Caught sight of a familiar form—
Accepted these passes A careless grace I knew of old; And then the well known face Burst on my view. Tho' eyes may be deceived I think it stopped As that one passed. Who owned its every beat In days gone by I dared not let Mine eyes her own to meet,
But, fearful, gazed on space,
While all the blood within my veins
Seemed as if froze
I wonder if she knew?
God knows.

EARLE REMINGTO

- The suit of Wm. H. Gillette to enjoin the Mans field Dramatic Association and Manager White, o the Criterion Theatre, Brooklyn, E. D., from producing "Held by the Enemy," and $1,000 damages, was continued in the Supreme Court, June 30. The evidence of Manager White was to the effect that he leased his theatre to the dramatic society withevidence of Manager White was to the effect that he leased his theatre to the dramatic society without knowing what they were going to produce. He did not think it necessary to make inquiries in the case of amateur managers. Chas. Frohman testified to sending letters to Mr. White, warning him not to produce the piay before the society did present it. Mr. Frohman said he never knew of the publication of the piay except by a firm in Chicago, who professed to sell all good plays for $5 or $10 each. They were purely pirates, and the piays were stolen. As Mr. Gillette is ill at Danville, this State, his deposition was read to the Justice. He swore that his play was not printed and published by his authority. Justice Bartlett decided in favor of the author. "The only question is as to the liability of the defend nt, White," said Justice Bartlett. "It is piain that Myer produced it with sufficient notice of the ownership and of the objection of the owner to its production. Judgment must be given against Myer for an injunction with costs. As to White, I think he is liable, not as the leasee of the building, but by reason of the fact that his employes, the stage carpenter and superintendent, participated indirectly in the production of the play. On the other hand, it would appear that White acted in good faith and did what he could to dissuade Myer from producing the play. On that question I reserve my decision, and if I find that White is liable I will not impose any costs. Counsel may submit briefs as to his liability." The question of damages is now before a referce.

— Although De Wolf Hopper has had but little leisure time during his present engagement at the Broadway Theatre, owing to the many details incident to and attendant upon his production of "Wang," in addition to performing every night, yet he is the kind of a man that can put "dull care" behind him, and when his work is over, enjoy life without a thought of business or its many annoyances. Every fine afternoon the comedian can be seen spinning through Central Park or along the boulevards in a handsome road waron drawn by a spirited roam horse, which he has named "Buck," after the well known captain of the "Glants," Buck Ewing. Della Fox and Anna O'Keefe, two of the principals of the Hopper organization, are also very fond of the road, and are both the fortunate possessors of stylish turnouts. Their preity faces have become quite familiar to habitues of the Park. The Hopper season at the Broadway will close Oct. 3, which, from the beginning of the "Wangi" run, will cover a period of twenty-two weeks. At its conclusion, Mr. Hopper will inaugurate his tour at the Globe Theatre, Boston, after which he will appear in all the principal cities throughout the country. During the Spring and Summer of 1892, Mr. Hopper will take a long and much needed rest, and will visit all the principal points of interest throughout Europe. Notes From Al. G. Field & Co.'s Minstrels.—
John W. Nagle, our general agent is a recent arrival. Mr. Nagle has been in New York since the closing of Primrose & West's season, attending to our bookings. Orland Leman, John Baker and Chester Nyms have also reported. A. P. Scott writes from Newport, Me., where he is sojourning, that the Northern climate has knocked his malaria out. Mrs. Al. G. Field went to Beverly, O., to spend the Fourth with Mrs. Oliver Scott. Cards of invitation are out for a lawn party to be given at the residence of Mr. Field, July 22. Many of Mr. Field's friends at Columbus have sent him a circular letter asking him to don the motley on the night of 13, and to appear with the John Robinson Show as clown. Sam Josephs, of the Robinson Circus, says he will have the performance in all the rings and on the elevated stages stopped, and give one ring to Josie De Mott, the well known equestrienne, and Mr. Field, to allow his old neighbors to hear again the wheezes that ticked them in the days gone by. Will A. Gunter is at his desk again after a pleasant vacation. He will have a cosy office on our parior car, "Dixie," in which he will receive his friends of the press. Last season, during August and September, it was circuses and circus paper daily. We hoped for a clear field this year, but Barnum's, Robinson's and Wallace & Co.'s, to say nothing of a haif dozen smaller ones, are on our route during August. But John Nagle says the paper of the "Famous" will go up if he has to build boards in every town where circuses conflict.

Thirke is every prospect of a lively legal squabble over the American rights of "The Nautch Girl." the New London Savoy opera, which has been received with extraordinary popular favor since the opening night. The claimant of the American rights is Rudolph Aronson, who, by virtue of a contract signed by Edward Solomon, feclares the opera belongs to him, and further, that if any attempt is made to play it outside by anyone else, he will stop it. Mr. Aronson said: "It is quite true, I am about taking stringent measures to protect my interests in connection with The Nautch Gir.' Under a contract dated June 30, 1887, registered also Somersat House, I purchased of Mr. Solomon all the works he might write for a period of seven years. That contract has still three years to run. It is not always that a successful dress rehearsal is corrobogated by the public verdict on the first night. This was the case with "The Nautch Girl," the new opera, with libretto by George Dance, with a few lyrics by Frank Desprez and muste by Edward Solomon, produced at the London savoy, June 30. If the mantle of Gilbert has fallen on Dance, it has been tattered in its descent, and although the plece has a Gilbertian flavor, it lacks the neatness and finish, to say nothing of the subtle humor, of the Prince of Topsyturvydom. The muste is full of promise, but has little of fulfilment. You always expect great things, but the composer seldom gets there. Not half a dozen encores were given during the evening, and only one double one—a strange state of affairs for a first night at the Savoy. It was beautfully staged and dressed, but the curtain fell amid cheers not unmixed with groans. Lenore Snyder sang her way into popularity as Beebee, and Jessie Bond was bright as ever. Ruttand Barrington was decidedly funny as the Rajab, and W. H. Denny scored as the idol Bumbo. Courtice Pounds sang sweetly as Indru, and Frank Thornton and Frank Wyatt also scored. Pobyly Carte was well received, but Solomon and Dance, who produced the opera, met with a mixed reception.

Sig. Salvini comes to the support of the emotionalists, who hold that an actor ought to experience all the feelings of the character which he represents. He says M. Coquelin, who holds the other view, that he has always found him wanting in passion—an artist of the head rather than of the heart. "An artist must feel," he says; "but he must at the same time have the feeling under control. In the case of a true artist we ought to find slight variations in every representation, no matter how often he has played the part. The man whose acting never varies always remains something of an automaton, no matter how great or beautiful his original conception of the role may be."

MARSHALL P. WILDER, the humorist, gave a matinee concert at the Criterion Theatre, London, Eng., July 2. Among those taking part were Belle Cole, Maude Millett, Lole Fuller, Alice Shaw, Florence St. John, Nelle Gauthony, Geraldine Ulmar, the Philometa Quartet, Mme. Anna Thereas Berger, Hayden Coffin, Mons. Marius, Geo. Giddens, Arthur Roberts, Geo. Alexander, Wm. Terriss, Mons. Tivadar Nachez, Alfred D. Cammeyer, Chas. D. Kellog, the Meister Glee Singers and Mitchell's Sine Hungarian Band. The conductors were Ivan Caryll, Edwin F. Kendall and Raphael Roche.

A PLAY RUDYARD KIPLING cannot fall to attract attention, and one will be produced by Philip Ben Greet at the London Crystal Palace on July 9. This enterprising young actor was the first who took a company on a regularly booked tour through the English provinces to play only in the open air, and he relied for his success on the adequate representation of such plays as "As You Like It," "Twellth Night" and "A Midsummer Night's Dream," the last being played by lime light. Mr. Kipling's play is based on one of his stories.

NEW YORK CITY.

Last Week's Events.-There was no interruption last week of the theatrical quietude that had made June a notably uneventful month in metropolitan amusements, and July came in with scarcely a promise of livelier happenings. Comic opera still reigns supreme as the only medium opera suil reigns supreme as the only medium between the public and the players in town......There was no change of bill at PALMER'S, where "The Tar and the Tartar" was sung; at the BROADWAY, with "Wang," by the De Wolf Hopper Opera Co.; at the CASINO, with "Apollo;" at MADI-SON SQUARE GARDEN AMPHITHEATER, with Gil-HORCE'S RANGE AT TERMINER CANDEN WITH GERMAN more's Band; at TERRACE GARDEN, with German comic operas, and at the GARDEN, where Richard Mansfield revived "Prince Karl," "Beau Brummell, "A Parisian Romance" and "Don Juan." Band-master Gilmore concluded his engagement at the Madison Square Garden night of July 2 in the presence of a large gathering. It was a great night for the band, and there was nothing but applause for its leader. In the matter of enthusiasm the concert was away beyond any of the others, and encores were numerous. Mr. Glimore's annual season at Manhattan Beach began afternoon of 4. There had been a deal of preparation made for his coming, for the Beach is never formally opened until he waves his wand in his little temple of music near the breakers. The soloists were Edward O'Mahony, the basso; Mme. Luckstone-Meyers, the Lutteman Sextet, Ida Kiein and W. J. Lavin. The Twenty-second Regiment Drum Corps, the anvil chorus and a num The Twenty-second ber of cannons were accessories to the concerts during the season. Hubert Wilkle, one of the prin-cipals in "The Tar and Tartar," carried his left arm in a sling during the performance at Paimer's night of June 30. The singer is a happy father, and de-lights in playing with his children. While romping with the little ones on a balcony of his house at Yonkers, one of them tickled him as he was climbing a pole, and he fell to the ground. When he was picked up he found that his arm was dislocated He persisted in taking his part, as usual, bu was unable to put any make up on his face. He was out of the cast July 1, his un-derstudy, Mr. Ravenscroft, filling his place very acceptably. Mr. Wilke reappeared later in the week. Digby Bell, of the same company, took a reapite afternoon of 4, Fred II. Frear appearing in his stead..... The six weeks' season of English standard opera at the GRAND OPERA House ended 4. The performance night of 1 was made a benefit for G. Tagliapietra, and a good audience assembled and applauded everything that he did. "The Bohemian Girl" was sung, and after it a part of the second act of "Carmen," in order to give Sig. Tagliapietra a chance to sing the Toreador song. The exceedingly long programme was made longer, and the patience of the audience was sorely taxed, by the almost intolerable waits between the acts. Before the scene from "Carmen" there was a pause of twenty-five minutes, and some suppressed ounds that were heard seemed to indicate that a rehearsal was going on behind the curtain. Paul Scindorff, the musical director, benefited night of 4.

Manager J. M. Hill, of the Union Square and Standard Theatres, has not made an assignment because some of his creditors are worrying him, and he says that within a year the amount of his present indebtedness will be paid in fuil. The four creditors who are pressing Mr. Hill most actively have claims amounting to about $0.000. This represents accounts for advertising, lithographing and bill-posting. Those who know Mr. Hill best say that he will soon be in a position to settle all these claims in fuil. An attachment was placed on Mr. Hill's Boston restaurant to satisfy some of the claims, and then withdrawn. Mr. Hill has been financially embarrassed for several months past. His theatrical ventures last season were almost all unauccessful. Mr. Hill says: "Part of my present difficulty is due to the fact that I signed notes amounting to thousands of dollars for a man who, I bought, was my friend. I do not want to discuss that part of my trouble beyond saying that it signing these notes I neglected several little accounts of my own that have caused this embarrassment. The last season was not a success, but my arrangements have been perfected for next season in such a way that I can say to every man to whom I owe money: 'Give me a little time, and you will be paid in full.' My indebtedness is not large, but these creditors are pushing it now at a time when it is difficult for me to meet it. I am not going to make an assignment or compromise. My career has been an honorable one, and no man can say to the contrary. Until recently I never had to tell a riban to wait for the payment of a just bill. I am not discouraged. Much of the time for next season at the Union Square and Standard Theatres has been booked, and my losses are not sufficient to cause a faiture." One of Mr. Hill's friends states that Mr. Hill had been one of the first to assist him. He had endorsed notes that the had afterward been forced to min had took many thousands of donars occasion had trusted some of his friends too implicitly. Whenever an actor was in trouble in New York Mr. Hill had been one of the first to assist him. He had endorsed notes that he had afterward been forced to pay and he had given away a good deal of money. There is a good deal of regret expressed among theatrical people that Mr. Hill is in difficulty, for he has been a popular man with them. Mr. Hill asserts confidently that his present embarrassment will make no difference with the opening of his theatres in the latter part of August.

Mus. Annie J. Allen (Jean Burnside) secured a warrant, July 1, for her husband's arrest, charging him with the larceny of $2,000 worth of furniture. The complainant slieges that a number of valuable articles were removed from her flat, No. 108 East Sixty-fourth Street, to that of her slater in law, during the former's absence in Europe. Mr. Allen was arrested afternoon of 1, and arraigned before Justice Divver. Mrs. Allen failed to appear, and the defendant was paroled for examination 7. He says that he was never married, and that the furniture is his property.

THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE closed for the season July 4, and is billed to reopen Aug. 24 with C. A. Gardner in "Captain Karl." The closing week of the season presented the English Opera Co. in the varied programme announced last week. "Fra Diavolo" was done July 2 for the first time this season, and was repeated during the remainder of the week. It was well received by a large audience at the first performance. F. Michelena was the Fra Diavolo and Camille Muori the Zerlina.

RICHARD MANSPIELD continues his engagement at the Garden, playing "Prince Karl' Monday and Saturday nights and Saturday afternoon. "Beau Brummell" Tuesday, "Don Juan" Wednesday and Friday, and "A Parisian Romance" Thursday.

JOHN C. FREUD and H. C. Burdick, editors and proprietors of The Music Trades, who were charged by J. Travis Quigg, the musical critic, with publishing a malicious libel on him, were held for trial in a police court July1.

This is the last week of "Apollo" at the Casho. On July 13, "The Grand Duchesa" will be revived, with Lillian Russell in the title role. It will run until Aug. 14.

A MONTH AGO Rose Eytinge obtained a judgment for $3,481.86 against Kate Claxton. J. Charles Flammer has now brought supplementary proceedings to compel Kate Claxton to pay to the executors of the Timolity Townsend estate $840 before she satisfies the judgment obtained by Miss Eytinge. The $840 is for rent Miss Eytinge didn't pay white she lived at 227 West Forty-seventh Street. Many efforts were made to collect it, but Miss Eytinge always said she hadn't the money. The first hearing of the case took place July 3, in the City Court, before Judge McGowan. Miss Eytinge testified that she had assigned all her interest in the judgment to E. J. Fisher, about two or three years ago. She wasn't sure about the time, because her memory was poor. She owed Mr. Fisher, she said, at that time, between $2,000 and $3,000 for borrowed money, living expenses and other things. "I own no real extate," said Miss Eytinge, "not even a grave. I own no stocks or bonds. I have no money in any savings bank—not a cent. I owe a month's rent, and I do not know where to get the money to pay it. All my popils have gone out of town. A CARLEGRAM has been received from Victorien Sardou, in which he states that the English adaptation of "Thermidor" has met with his approval, and that it was forwarded to this country on July 4. Immediately upon receipt of the manuscript the work of organizing the company for the presentation of the play at Protor's Theatre, by Chas. Frohman's Co., will be begun. The three leading roles will be essayed by Forbes Robertson, Esise De Wolfe and Frederic Bond. Elsie De Wolfe will sall from Paris Aug. 3, and Forbes Robertson, Esise De Wolfe and Frederic Bond. Elsie De Wolfe will include twenty-five people and, like most of Sardou's tragic plays, it requires a large number of supernumeries. M. Sardou has received a number of offers for the privilege of producing the play in England, but he declines to allow the piece to be presented again until after it is brought out in America.

Karishishs City.—The innocuous disnetude into which the amusement going public has fallen on account of the dearth of entertainments, was suddenly dispelled by "The Chimes of Normands," wung out at the Goates Opera House, by the Cloward Opera Co for three evenings last week. Heretofors all efforts to produce Summer opera in this city have been frigidly repulsed, but if the reception accorded the "Chimes" be taken as an indication of a desire for Summer opera, some enterp ising manager will not be slow to engage a company, and prevent the annual Summer depletion of his exchenger. Interest is ceased Summer depletion of his exchenger. SEATS for "the day we celebrate" were sold long in advance, and the result was that two immense audiences witnessed the delightful comedicita. Next season's company is about filled by Manager Field. Among the old favorites are Messra. Davenport, Wilson, Barron, Boniface, Booth, Abbe and Burrows, Annie Clarke-Mirlam O'Leary, Evelyn Campbell, Fanny Addison, Kate Ryan and Agnes Acres. The new faces will be those of Ida Glenn, Marie Burress (who succeeds Emma Sheriuan) and Clarence Holt. In regard to the production of new plays, no definite course has yet been decided upon by Mr. Field, but, as I stated some time ago, the fifty-first season of this standard house will be opened Aug. 31 with Henry Guy Carleton's latest comedy, "Ye Earlie Trouble, a Romance of 76." It is also safe to say that Mr. Carleton's comedy, "A Princess of Eric," will be presented during the season. Other attractions are Sidney Grundy's "Lady Jess." and A. W. Pinero's "Lady Bountifal." It is likewise Manager Field's intention to produce new plays from the pens of Clyde Fitch, J. K. Jerome. Seymour Hicks, R. C. Cartonjand Henry Fettitt. Taken in all, the Museum's next season promises to fully maining the west learned reputation of this popular house. GAIKEY AND BIJOU THEATAKE—Manager K-ith is putting up a very strong line of attractions, and that the public thoroughly appreciate his efforts is shown by enormous attend-nee day and evening. "Olivette" was given last week in a most creditable manner by the Galety Open Chine City at popular prices. WALTER KOENIG, a concert planist and director ormerly of New York, who was arrested at Dan-ville, Ill., some days ago for horse stealing, and taken to Wabash, Ind., for trial, has had other charges preferred against him since his incarcera-tion. He wooed Grace Rushton, and, when her parents declined to give their danghter to him, he persuaded her to elope to Tipton, where they lived as man and wife. Notwithstanding the girl's prayers and tears, Koenig reiused to marry her. The reason has just been discovered. He was informed of a report being current that he has a faintly at Easton, Pa., whereupon he confessed that he married Belle Gibbs at Philadelphis, March 20, 1800, and that six months afterwards he descried her to join a traveling troupe. He admits that he has not contributed a cent towards his wife's support. Bon Slavins is at his home, Baitimore, but will go to Cieveland, O., about July 10, where he joins the May Russell Co. DEATHS IN THE PROFESSION.

FRANK CHARVAT .- The sudden death of Frank Charvat, manager of Ullie Akerstrom, will be a most mournful and unlooked for piece of intelli-gence for a host of CLIPPER readers, who were his friends. He was taken ill Monday night, June 23, with inflammation of the bowels, and died at 2.30 p. M., Monday, June 30, at his home, 204 West Madison Street, Peoria, Ill. Mr. Charvat was born Aug. 16, 1849. He leaves a widow and three children. In earlier years he had been connected with the circus earlier years he had been connected with the circus business, but for the past seven seasons he had directed the starring tours of Uile Akerstrom. His quiet, courteous demeanor, his unaffected methods and his energetic labors in behalf of Miss Ackerstrom, were of great value in winning success for that actress; and it is gratifying to read the acknowledgement from her: "I have lost a manager to wnose industry I owe much of my present reputation. His place will be hard to fill. He was a true man, honored and loved by all who knew him, for his loyalty to his friends and his spotless integrity." The funeral was held July 1. Beautiful floral emblems covered the coffin, many of the tribute coming from afar.

THEATRICAL.

J. S. H., Minneapolis.—No company is at present using it; but it is a very popular title, and is quite likely to be profusely availed of by next season's combinations. In the past it has been extensively used.

A. M. S.—We cannot recall him just now. There have been hundreds of actors of his surname, you must recollect. Can't you give us a better clue to his identity?
O. B. N.—I. Apply at Dazian & Co's., Union Square.

2. From $30 to $150 a week, according to the degree of skill, daring, novelty, etc., in the act. 3. From $25 to $50.

B. M., Chatlanooga,—See the notice at the head of this column. We cannot violate that rule.

W. H. McM., Russell.—1. There would be no novelty in your turn, as you describe it, though it might be available in the museums. 2. You could probably get from $20 to $35 a week, in either capacity. 3. We do not care to "lay out" a costume for you. Use your own judgment in that matter.

W. J., Chicago.—You can address them at No. 1,127 Broadway, this city.

W. A. G., Nashua.—We do not furnish attractions, nor assist in furnishing them. Insert an advertisement in our columns, describing your place and stating just what you want. You will, doubties, receive myriads of applications.

M. E. R., Boston.—We will at an early date publish his portrait, biography, etc., when your queries will be faily answered.

W. J. E., St. Louis.—We believe they will. To make sure write to their managers, Rosenfeld Bros., in care of The CLIPPER.

L. H., Nashua.—It is respectfully declined.

W. J. E., St. Louis.—We believe they will. To make sure write to their managers, Rosenfeld Bros., in care of The Clipper.
L. H., Nashua.—It is respectfully declined.
Eddewoitth.—I. You must be of age, and of good standing. That is all. 2. From $20 to $35 a week.
W. S., Allegheny City.—See the notice at the head of this column. If you do not so ceed in reaching him through that usually successful means, insert a small card in our advertising columns, asking for information as to his address.
C. P. M., Toledo.—Just at present she is resting. She goes out in the same farce next season. See the notice at the head of this column.
H. S., Canton.—I. From $25 to $60 a week. 2. That depends upon the repertors and the nature of the contrast. Always have such matters specified in your agreement.

in your agreement.

GEO. B., Aachem.—As nearly as we can ascertain, Bob and Anna Whiting were the first team of that description to appear in this city. They were heard here in the 70s.

A. G., Delaware.—See the notice at the head of

P. AND D., Newark.—They hav no value unless you agree to play them, as which time their relative rank should also be agreed upon.

W. C. C.—No. Openers only are all that is necessary to show, when not called.

F. P. S., Boston.—The original pot stands, and with A's penalty for his false play a .ded should be played for again.

S. E. B.—Yes. Both the caller and the called must show their hands, if any player expresses a wish to see them.

J. P. W. S., Tacoma.—C must bet first. The age never transfers.

Sport, Taunton.—If you were playing the bid to count for the seiler, a fact which you omitted to explain, the game is off. Each one wins according to your statement. Consequently no one is "stuck."

C. A. T., Syracuse.—Any straight flush is a royal flush. The tray, four, five, six and seven of clubs is a royal flush. So is the nine, ten, jack, queen and king of hearts. In other words, any five cards all of one suit, and running in consecutive order, is a straight, sequence or royal flush.

J. J., Jersey City.—A player can order up the trump, without hothing a trump in his hand. He assumes all risks, not his opponent.

B. L.—B wins. The knave is high in cutting for deal, as in play, when no special agreement to the contrary is made.

Card Player, Washington.—We have no record

contrary is made.

CARD PLAYER, Washington.—We have no record of such a game, nor have we ever heard of a piay of the nature stated. It is possible, but hardly probable.

A. M., Steubenville.—1. The ace is higher than the queen. 2. No answers by mail or telegraph.

J. P. R., Olean.—Whether it was a misdeal or not depends entirely upon the existing circumstances of play, about which you are silent. Tell us when and in whose hand the error was discovered, and we will gladly arbitrate the dispute.

J. C. D., Albany.—He must discard and accept the draw.

BASEBALL, CRICKET, Etc.

P. F. C., St. Louis.—B wins. It was a foul. C. H., Birmingham.—The four games were: June 2, New York, 7; Cleveland, 0. June 5, New York, 9; Cincinnati, 2. June 10, Pittsburg, 14; New York, 6, June 22, Bryoklyn, 4; New York, 0. No answers by mail.

II. F. MALONE.—The largest number of base hits made off Rusie in any championship game this season is the seventeen scored by the Cleveland Club, May 18, at Cleveland.

C. R. H., Philadelphia.—1. The largest total score in one inning in America is the 631 runs made by the Germantown Club of Philadelphia in a game with the Rosedale Club of Toronto, July 2 and 3, 1891, at Philadelphia. 2. The second largest is the 41s runs made by the Germantown Club in a match with the Young Americas, June 18 and 28, 1887, at Philadelphia.

C. S. Patterson then scored 164 runs.

E.-B., Rhinelander,—In order to obtain definite information regarding that matter, you had better write to Richard Roche, in care of this office.

Miss. C. H., Brooklyin.—All that we know regarding the matter is that Lew Baker, who was tried for the murder of Bill Poole, deserted from a whale ship at the Sandwich Islands, and came home in an American man of war. We cannot give you the name of the vessel.

of the vessel.

N. E.—The party to whom you have reference of Crossfield.

B. L.—John L. Sullivan did spar at the American Institute Hall, on Third Avenue, this city, several years ago. On that occasion the late Billy Borst wanted him to box Geo. Rooke in a ring creeted on the foor, but for obvious reasons, Sullivan sensibly declined to do it. Billy Madden was with John L.

declined to do it. Billy Madden was with John L. at that time.

C. W.—We have no record of the parties you refer to ever having met in Australia, and we know that they did not in this country.

J. W. R., Madeira.—Under such circumstances, in the matter of ring fights, the money should be returned to the bettors.

B. G. W., Terre Haute.—John L. Sullivan and Paddy Ryan fought with bare knuckies at Mississippi City, Miss., in 1882, Sullivan winning. They afterwards met in a giove contest in public at San Francisco. The contest was limited to four rounds, but Ryan was knocked out before the expiration of the third.

the third.

H. D. St. John.—No comparison can be instituted between them for the reason that their battles have been so different in style. Jack Randail fought in the ring, in the old style, many more times than sultivar. Sunivan.

J. C. S.—You win. The referee's decision was that Siavin had not knocked out Kitrain.

J. A., Lynn.—John L. Sullivan was born at Boston, Mass., on Oct. 15, 1858.

W. B., Catskill.—if nothing was said at the time he match was made regarding running separately, nd the signed articles contain no reference there-o, the challenging party must either run or pay for-cit of his stake.

OLD TIMER, Orange.—1. We do not deal in the ar-ticle. 2. We have not heard that he has run any-where this season. You will probably find his name among the starters at some of the Caledonian meet-ings. 3. Have not heard of either of them for some time, and are of opinion that they are no longer on the running path. the running path AQUATIC.

SUBSCRIPTION BLANKS have been forwarded to all members of the New York Athletic Clius to secure a fitting memorial to the late Frederick Brokaw, who was a member of the club. The fund will be disposed of in such manner as may be approved by the family, his college mates and the Alumni associations of Princeton College. Brokaw lost his life at Long Branch, N. J., while endeavoring to rescue two girls from drowning.

There Will Be No Fight.

The standing committees of the Long Island Amateur Athletic League held a meeting Tuesday evening, June 30, in the rooms of the Sewanhaka Amsteur Athletic League held a meeting Tuesday evening, June 30, in the rooms of the Sewanhaka Boat Club, 504 Bedferd Avenue, Brooklyn, swallowed the dose of medicine given them by the Board of Managers of the Metropolitan Association, of the Amsteur Athletic Union, meekly submitted and felt glad that they were alive. They perused the official notification from the highest amsteur power on earth with fear, and, like a drowning man grasping at a straw, they seized the clause which gave them permission to hold games Saturday, Aug. 22, for "any other than championship games." The Athletic Committee of the new organization then framed the following announcement: "The first annual field meeting of the Long Island Athletic League will be held on Saturday, Aug. 22, at Washington Park, Fifth Avenne and Fourth Street, Brooklyn." The Finance Committee was formally organized by the selection of T. S. W. Hawkhurst, Amity Athletic Association, as chairman: A. J. Bisnet, Printers' Athletic Association; E. F. Vacheron, Siac Athletic Association, and Lieut. E. F. Christoffel, Company D. Forty-sevent Regiment Athletic Association, comprise the committee. The Committee of Admissions was organized by the election of Albert A. Baker, Union Athletic Club, as chairman, James A. Kirkwood, Arcturus Amsteur Athletic Association; John J. Dixon Jr., Company F. Alleged New Record.

According to a dispatch from Detroit, Mich., the field meeting of the Central Division of the A. A. U., held on July 4, was marked by a new record, both performances being credited to members of the Pastime Athletic Club, of St. Louis. The record the Pastime Athletic Club, of St. Louis. The record of the 220yds. dash was equaled by Harry Jewett. The day was nearly perfect for the sports. Reber's running jump was made when everything had been prepared for it, and every precaution taken to have no question as to the authenticity of the record. His first jump was over 22ft. The ground was then tested with a spirit level, and accurately measured twice. At the second attempt he rose beautifully, and seemed to fairly sail over the ground. His jump was 23ft. 6½in. In the 220yds. run, Jewett made a flying trip and then perceptibly stackened his pace thirty feet from the twine. Everybody knew it was a fast run, and cheered lustily. The time was 22s.

Latest Doings and Sayings of the Baseball Fraternity

A dispatch from Columbus dated June 29, says:
The spirit of disorganization is in the Columbus The spirit of disorganization is in the Columbus team, and there will be a lively shaking up when the club returns from St. Louis. Gastright, one of its mainstays in the box, was sent from St. Louis to his home, in Newport, Ky., to remain without pay until he gets himself in condition for work. Sneed was notified that he would be expected to play right field, his release, dated July 1, having been revoked by order of the directors. O'Connor will be laid off temporarily at least. The trouble arises from a feeling of hostility to Manager Schmeiz. The players blame him with the loss of many games on account of his peculiar methods of team work, and several players of the team declare they will ask for their release unless the manager's ways are changed. The directors side with Manager Schmeiz, and some interesting developments may be looked for. If the feeling of insubordination continues half the team will be looking for engagements within a week. The directors propose to go to the root of the trouble."

once prominent professional player, who died July 3 at Brooklyn, of dropsy, after an illness of over a 3 at Brooklyn, of dropsy, after an illness of over a year. He was born about thirty-six years ago at Brooklyn, and first played with amateur clubs of his native city. He was noted as the pitcher of the old amateur Nassau nine of Brooklyn, Manager Barnie, now of the Baitimore Club, of the American Association, being the catcher of the same team. His first professional engagement was in 1875, with the Atlantic Club, of Brooklyn. In 1876 he joined the New Haven Club, which, at that time, was considered one of the strongest professional organizations outside of the National League. While he was connected with the New Havens he filled the positions, with great credit to himself, of pitcher, first base, centre and right field. In September of that year he received a tempting offer from Manager Ferguson to join the Hartford team, of the National League, which he accepted, and finished that season with the Hartfords as right fielder. He remained with the Hartfords throughout the season of 1877. In 1878, when Manager Ferguson was given charge of the Chicago team, of the National League, Cassidy was one of the first men he signed for his team. He remained with the Chicagos all of that season taking part in every one of the sixty championship taking part in every one of the sixty championship games. In 1879 he played with the Springfield (Mass) club, of the National Association, until it disbanded early in September, when he joined the Troy Club, of the National League, and finished the season with the latter team. While with the Springfields Cassidy played as an outfielder in a majority of the games, and also filled the position of second baseman. He remained with the Troy Club throughout the seasons of 1880, 1881 and 1882. In 1883 he joined the Providence Club, of the National League, taking part in no fewer than elgity-nine championship games that sewson. In 1884 and 1885 he covered right field and acted as captain of the Brooklyn team, then of the American Association. This was his last prominent professional engagement. He was one of the leading batsmen of the National League, and was also a good fielder, being noted particularly for the frequency with which he retired men at first base on hits to right field. He was born and brought up in the Fifth Ward of Brooklyn, where he had many warm friends.

A dispatch from St. Louis, dated July 2, says: "John T. Brush, President of the Cincinnati Club, of the National League, arrived here to day. Shortly after his arrival he sent President Von der Ahe, of the St. Louis Club, of the American Association, a message stating that he was here and when he would meet him. Brush left the hotel early and was out all day. That he is here on baseball business there is no doubt, and his mission is unquestionably to make a proposition of some kind to the St. Louis magnate. The National League is anxious to make a troposition of some kind to the St. Louis magnate. The National League is anxious to make its peace with the American Association, and Brush has been taiking compromise for several weeks past. His presence here now is probably to sarry on the negotiations he endeavored to open with Von der Ahe at Cincinnati. The latter, however, will not do any dickering with Brush without the knowledge and consent of his colleagues. If the Cincinnati National League magnate has any propositions to make he will be requested to make them to the president of the American Association, Mr. Kramer, of Cincinnati. Von der Ahe says the American Association people have been fooled frequently enough by National League trickery, and will not place themselves in a position where the National League people can make them appear in a false light before the people. Mr. Von der Ahe says the American Association people are pretty well satisfied with the way things are going, and if any compromise is to be made the National League people must make the overtures to President Kramer."

It is reported and generally believed among the American Association clubs, that a Pittaburg agent has made offers to Mulvey and Corcoran, of the Athetics, of Philadelphia. Both men say that they will not violate their contracts. It is not denied that overtures have been made by both American Association and National League, to players on the opposite sides but so far, not a man has consented to jump.

The Washington Club

sented to jump.

The Washington Club has given up its idea of playing regular Sunday games at the Gentiemen's Driving Park, near Alexandria, Va. Secretary Kalbfus, of the Washington Club, says: "The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has just informed us that it will not stop trains at our Sunday park in Virginia. This, of course, compels us to cancel all Sunday engagements for that point. Workmen had already begun to erect additional seats at the Driving of the product of the middle of the product o already begun to erect additional seats at the Dri ing Park, but they have stopped in the middle their task."

The Louisville team left St. Louis, July 2, without two of its members, Ehret and Raymond. Soon after leaving the ball grounds that afternoon these two players came in contact with R. H. Towniey, of Lincoln, Neb., presideht of the Lincoln Club, and the result was that one more player has turned a contract jumper. Raymond already bore the stigma, so that his jumping with Euret is only the repetition of a previous performance, as the two were signed by Towniey to play hereafter with the Lincoln team, of the Western Association.

Only stynnings were played in a championship

Only six innings were played in a championship game of the Northwestern League June 26, at Terre Haute, Ind., because the police took Umpire Hayes from the field, fearing that he might be mobbed. The Dayton team were the opponents of the local club, which led by 5 to 3 at the close.

The Englewood Field Club and Crescent Athletics played an eleven inning game July 2, at Englewood, which resulted in a tie, each scoring four runs.

Rain on July 2, at Philadelphia, caused the post ponement of the scheduled championship game between the New York and Philadelphia Clubs. Harry Reynolds, who died July 1, at Cleveland, after an illness of only five days, was a great favor-ite with the baseball and theatrical fraternities.

A largely attended meeting of the classmates and friends of the late Frederick Brokaw was held July 2, in this city, C. Ledyard Blair presiding, Subcommittees for the projected Brokaw memorial at Princeton College were appointed for nearly all the other large cities in the country. These sub-committees will solicit subscriptions for $15,000 to convert the ten acre field south of the president's house at Princeton into an athietic field and to erect on it a memorial gate and tablet.

The players of this year's team at the University of Virginia are earnest in study as well as in the sport of the diamond. Nearly all of them stood well in the recent examinations and several took degrees. The team will make a tour of North and South Carolina, playing college clubs or professionals.

At the close of the fifth inning of the Spokane-Tacoma game, played June 28, at Spokane, Wash, warrants were served on the players and managers of both teams, charging them with violating the Sunday law. A compromise was effected, by which the game was allowed to go on to the finish, after which the players appeared before Justice C. B. Dunning, who placed them under $50 bonds each, for appearance July 26. They were allowed to go on their own recognizance. This is the outcome of an attempt to enforce the Sunday law in that city. The Schedule Committee of the American Association, consisting of Barnie of Baltimore, Von der Ahe of St. Louis, and Wagner of Philadelphia, held an informal meeting July 5, at Philadelphia. It was decided to allow the schedule to remain as at present. In case a change, is deemed advisable later on, another meeting of the committee will be called.

A dispach from St. Louis dated July 4, says: "It is said that Brush's mission here was to arrange for the transfer of the Cincinnati Club, of the National League, to Indianapolis. Some time ago Brush ofered to repay the American Association for its entire outlay at Cincinnati, allowing $12,000 for the improvements made at its grounds, and also to fit up the American Association free of cost at Indianapolis, if the American Association would move to the latter place and vacate Cincinnati. Since then the National League has fitted up for itself grounds at Indianapolis, and it is believed that Brush now wants a compromise to be effected whereby the American Association will be allowed to retain Cincinnati if it will take off the bands of the National League there the two parks it has leased. Whether the American Association agrees to this or not, the National League Club will probably be moved to Indianapolis as that body is about thed of defraying the expenses of a venture which is costing so much money as the Cincinnati Club of the National League. In the event of any compromise of the Cincinnati League trouble, there will probably be a settlement of the whole baseball war.

Philadelphia vs. New York.

The seventh game was played June 30, at Philadelphia, the New Yorks then scoring their fourth victory of the series. Rusie was unusually steady and very effective, not giving a base on balls, while he held the home team down to three safe hits, two of which were scratch singles that tied the score in the sixth inning. Wild throws by Bassett and Rusie had given the Philadelphias their first run. Thornton also pitched very effectively after the first inning, when singles by Gore and O'Rourke, together with a base on balls, brought in two runs. The visitors made the winning run in the tenth inning on scratch singles by Whistler and Ruskley and an out. A foul fly catch by Buckley was noteworthy. Thompson threw out a man at the plate. A curious feature was the fact that Brown had only two chances at first base.

It required ten innings to decide the contest. June 30, at Brooklyn, the home team then scoring their 30, at Brooklyn, the home team then scoring their fourth victory of the series. Hemming held the Bostons down to seven safe hits, which were well scattered, but by a wild throw he gave them their only run. He struck out Stovey no fewer than five times, third and second bases being occupied on three of these occasions. Staier was batted ireely, but proved so effective when men were on bases that the Brooklyns were able to score only one run up to the tenth inning. Then, after two men were out, four successive safe hits helped the home team to three runs and the victory. Burns burt his hand in the eighth liming and gave way to Caruthers. Daly and Ganzel caught remarkably well, while Collins led in batting.

Chicago vs. Pittsburg.

The tenth game was played June 30, at Chicago, the Pittsburgs then securing their fourth victory of the series. The result was mainly due to the effective pitching by King, who kept the home team from making more than one safe hit, a single by Wilmot in the sixth inning. Stein held the Pittaburgs down to six safe hits, which were distributed through as many innings, and yielded three runs.

Cleveland vs. Philadelphia.

Two games were played July 4, at Cleveland, each team then being credited with a victory. The conteam then being credited with a victory. The contest is the morning resulted in a victory for the home team, who, strengthened by the reappearance of Tebeau, pounded Esper all over the field, making no fewer than twenty-three safe hits. Childs led in batting, with two doubles and three singles. Johnson hurt his hand at practice and Doyle took his place. Viau pitched effectively up to the ninth inning, when errors by Davis, McKean and Childs were followed by seven safe hits that helped the Philadelphias to ten runs and gave the home team a bad scare. Davis relieved Viau, and a clever catch by Doyle and a splendid stop by McKean then saved the game.

A drizzling rain fell during the first three innings of the afternoon game, and caused the attendance to be much smaller than was expected. Staley and Baldwin both pitched with wonderful effectiveness throughout. Staley held the visitors down to three safe hits, two of which were successive triple baggers by Stovey and Quinn, in the tinid inning that helped the Bostons to their first run. A home run hit by Carroll, tied the score in the fourth inning, and alone saved the Pittsburgs from being shut out, although Beckley made a triple bagger and Berger a single in the next two innings. A single by Tucker, and a wild throw by Miller in the seventh inning, helped the Bostons to the winning run. A corious feature was the fact, that out of the six safe hits credited to the two teams, only two were singles.

The Eastern teams of the National League and American Association won fourteen of the sixteen games played with the Western teams on July 4. A curious coincidence was that the only games lost were those played on the morning of that day by the two rival Philadelphia teams, the Athletics being defeated on their own grounds by the St. Louis, while the Philadelphias met with a defeat by the Cleveland Club on the latter's ground.

The morning game July 4, at Salem, Mass., between Salem and Lynn, was declared forfeited to the former by a score of 9 to 0. In the sixth inning the Salem team called for a new ball, which the Lynn Club was unable to produce, whereupon Umpire Mulcahey gave the game to Salem.

Paul Cook, recently released by the Louisville Club, of the American Association, signed with the St. Louis Club July 6.

It is said that Captain Comiskey, of the St. Louis Club, will go on a tour through Europe immediately after the close of the championship season.

Athletic vs. Baltimore.

A postponed game was played off June 30, at Philadelphia, the Athletics then scoring their fifth victory of the series. McMahon was batted hard all through the game, especially by Cross, who made four successive safe hits, including a doubler bagger, and Larkin, who made three hits, and was deprived of two more by great catches by Welch. The Baltimores were unable to bat Sanders until the latter part of the contest, when he let up, and was hit rather hard in two innings. Johnson made a great catch that spoiled a home run, he leaning over the inside fence in deep right field and pulling in the ball as it descended.

The above result was reversed July 1, after an exciting contest. Chamberian and Bakely both pitched effectively. The Baltimores bunched three singles, two being scratches, in the first inning, when, aided by a passed ball and a questionable decision, they secured three runs and a winning lead. Two more lucky hits in the sixth gave the visitors their fourth and last run. Poor base running by Cross cost the home team a run in the fifth inning, and a bad decision by Umpire Ferguson deprived them of abother run in the sixth, when Hallman drove the balltoth; coause tail fence, and easily beat it to the Remarkable scoring was shown in a game beween the University of Cambridge team and the Sussex County Eleven June 18, 19 and 20at Brighton, ED7, although it just failed to secure what is termed a world's record in the highest aggregate for a first class match. The respective totals were: Cambridge University 359 and 366, Sussex 314 and 363. As it was, though as many as 1,402 runs were made in the four innings, the total fell nine short of the number scored in the international match between New South Wales and Victoria, at Sydney, in 1882, when W. L. Murdoch scored 321, falling short of W. G. Grace's 344, the best individual score in a first class match. Still, a strict analysis would be in favor of the last performance, as the 1,402 runs were the outcome of three days' cricket, while the intercolonial extended into a fifth day. The most curious feature of the game was the fact that each of the four innings showed a total averaging between 314 and 366, and that in three of them there was only a difference of 7 runs, from 359, the lowest, to 366, the highest. Not one of the least noteworthy incidents, too, was that in a game of such exceptionally high scoring there should have been only one individual contribution of three figures, G. Brann's second score of 161, and that quite at the end of the match.

CRICKET NOTES.

M. G. Grace, the champion cricketer of the world, is the author of a work on cricket recently issued in Eugland. Speaking about cricketers he has met he has this to say of Charles A. Newhall, of Philadelphia: "He was a long way the best fast right hand bowler who has yet appeared in America, and is a member of the family of that name which has given the Gentlemen of Philadelphia a good position in 1872, and was much impressed with his pace, length and break from the off. He was quite as fast as Preeman, and made the ball come quickly off the pitch. On a good wicket many of his balls kept low, and on a oumpy wicket he was most dangerous and very successful. In the match, Const and made a strong combination and required a lot of playing, and on their form that day would have puzzled the finest batting Sussex County Eleven June 18, 19 and 20 at Brighton, Ep 7, although it just failed to secure what is termed

George Parr, who, in his day, was one of the greatest of English baismen, died June 23, at Rateliffe-on-Trent, a village near Nottingham, Eng., where he was born May 22, 1825. He played his first match at Lord's June 23, 1846, when only nereten years, but on that occasion did not exhibit the skill for which he afterward became famous. For many years his scores were enormous, and his siyle of play ranked him as the best bat-man in England, his leg hitting being a treat to witness, and no man approaching him in this particular bit. He lived in a day when bowiers were given to bowling on the leg side. His position in the field at the commencement of his career was generally long leg, he being able to throw the ball a great distance, having in a match with a soldier named Parkinson, at Lord's June 16, 1846, thrown the ball lowyds. 2ft., but of later years he took either slip or point. The players of the All England and United All England Elevens in a match at Lord's in 1857, publicly presented Parr with a handsome gold watch as a mark of their esteem for his scores of 56 and 19, both "not outs." At the Oval against Surrey in 1859 Parr scored 130, enabling Nottingham to visit the match by eight wickels, although Surrey scored 213 and 172 in their respective limitigs. From 1844, when he first played for Notis, for a quarter of a century he took a prominent part in cricket, and, indeed, for a long time, he bal no superior as a batsman. As a leg hitter he will be particularly remembered, but was a strong, powerful hitter all round, as well as a fine field at leg, and an excellent judge of a run as well as of the game generally. He succeeded Fuller Plich, as the leading bat-man of the day, a position that he easily held for about ten years, and then in turn he gave way to such men as Hayward, Carpenter and E. M. Grace. His best batting was in 1857. Parr was associated all his life with Nottinghamhler, which he capitalned for several seasons. After the death of William Clarke, he undertook the management of the All Engla

The July Stakes, 50 sovereigns each, 30 forfeit, for two year olds, was the chief event on the card at the Newmarket First July Meeting, which commenced July 30. The distance was five furlongs and 142yds. July 30. The distance was twe turions and 1-2-yas. J. B. Leigh's brown filly Fiyaway, by Galopin, out of Rookery, was first. The second position was occupied by Sir F. Johnstone's coit Goldfinch, by Ormonde, out of Thistle. E. Blanc's chestnut coit Rucil, by Energy, out of Reveuse, was third. Twenty-nine horses started for the event, and among them appeared the Prince of Wales' coit Pettifogger.

Nelson again Recognized.

President Beaman, of the American Trotting Association, has issued a circular reinstating the great stallion and his owner on the tracks of the ass stanton and his owner on the tracks of the associa-tion. Neison has the world's stallion record of 2:10%. It is claimed that the manner in which Neison was suspended was illegal, as there is no rule in the by-laws of the association by which a man who drives his horse to win can be punished, even though it may have been arranged beforehand for that horse to win the race.

Through the stupidity of a backman the great pacer hai Painter has wrenched his nigh hind ankie, which will doubtless lay him up for fully two months. He has a record of 2:09%, and has had the honor of going through the Grand Circuit for two years with but one defeat. He was to have started in an attempt to beat the haif mile pacing record, at Jamestown, N. Y., the day of the accident, and while being warmed up at a 2:20 gait a hack pulled up in front of hirs, and, to avoid a colision, he was pulled double by his driver. It was rather sudden and Hai Painter received his serious strain.

FRIENDS of Kingston claim that the reason he lost

oen and hal Painter received his serious strain.
FRIENDS of Kingston claim that the reason he lost the race with Tenny, in time that he has always been capable of discounting, was that in climbing the hill at Morris Fark he went lame in the same shoulder that was injured at the time he met Tournament last season. The Dwyer pet never appeared to like the hills and vales of the West Chester course.

During the second race at Kansas City, June 30, an accident occurred in full view of the spectators, which marred their pleasure for the remainder of the day. There were only three starters in the race and at the turn they were all running together, when Virginia, with Tommy Ward, a Kansas City jockey, up, fell. Ward was caught under Virginia's right shoulder and was dangerously injured.

RINFAX was the winner of the mile race at the Washington Park, Chicago, on Monday, July 6, but he failed to beat the time made by Racine, 1:39%, over the same track hast season. The managers had offered an extra $1,000 to any horse that succeeded in eclipsing that time. Rinfax failed by two and a half seconds.

THE RING.

Harry Jennings Dead.

The death of the veteran sporting man whose name captions this paragraph took place at his residence, in this city, on Sunday, July 8, and was due to pneumonia and rheumatism combined, superinduced by a severe fall which he sustained about two weeks previously. He was born in England, and came to this country about forty years ago. He opened a sporting house in this city, which he carried on for several years with profit. From here he went to floston, where he engaged in the same business on Fortland Street, and he was patronized by sporting men of all classes, but, after doing well for a number of years, he got into trouble through some of the frequeniers of his drum committing a burglary, in which he was supposed to have been implicated, and he was sentenced to a term of imprisonment. Those who knew Jennings best never believed that he had anything to do with the crime. After his release he returned to New York, where he opened a public bouse on Broome Street, on the corner of Centre Market Place, removing from there to 255 Centre Street, where he continued in business up to the period of his death. After his removal to the inter place, he gave up the saioon business altogether, and attended exclusively to that of a dog fancier, which he had formerly combined with it. He had been the owner of several noted buildogs, the best remembered being the celebrated Waterford Jack, and he was for a long time prominently connected with the big matches between fighting dogs, either as backer, trainer and handler or official at the pit side. Of the years, however, he and given his attention almost exchasively to rat catching, at which he did a very large and profitable business, having contracts with nearly all the large hotels and many of the leading business houses to keep their establishments clear of the rodenits, and he and his assistants were kept busy at this peculiar him of work. He was twice married, but had no children. His second wife survives him. It is stated that he had accumulated about $25,000. His funeral The death of the veteran sporting man whose name captions this paragraph took place at his

Kelly Does Up Rose.

A party of about one hundred high toned sports, the majority of whom were members of the New York, Manhattan and Staten Island Athletic Clubs, the majority of whom were members of the New York, Manhattan and Staten Island Athletic Clubs, came about as near .ecing a prize fight to a finish June 30 as the rules of the Amateur Athletic Union would permit. Ever since the amateur competitions last Winter there has been a hard feeling existing between Sam Keity, of the West Side Athletic Club, and James Rose, of the Manhattan Athletic Club, and James Rose, of the Manhattan Athletic Club, when the rounders got on to this fact, it did not lake them long to make a match between them, and put up a $100 gold watch for them to spar four rounds for. The rooms of the Hoboken Athletic Club were secured, and the chosen few went over the river to see the sport. The judges were Maxwell T. More, of the New York Athletic Club, and A. F. Camacho, of the Staten Island Athletic Club, Kelly was taller and stronger looking than his antagonist, who did not look to be in the pink of condition. Kelly was smilling and confident, while Rose looked nervous and uncomfortable. Kelly was the first to lead. He led low for the body, but was nearly stopped. Rose then-feinted with his left and attempted to swing his right, but got a staggering, straight self hander on the law for his pains. Kelly kept at leng range, and seemed perfectly content to use his left until near the close of the round, when he sent his right home on Rose's jaw with such force as to send him backwards on the ropes. The second, third and clouth rounds were all decidedly in favor of Kelly, who had used both hands with teiting effect on Rose. The referee then declared Kelly the winner.

Jake Somerindyke,

one of the very old school of sporting men, died at his residence in the upper part of this city a few days ago. He was born here about 1807, stood oft. 7in. in height, and when he was "scrapping" weighed 15 b. He figured prominently in P. R. weighed 16 fb. He figured prominently in P. R., matters for a number of years, and when Ben Caunt first came to this country Somerindyke sparred with him at the Old Bowery Theatre. He was quite clever in the use of his bands, as the Britisher found out and afterwards acknowledged. He was present at all the ring fights of importance in the old days, when boxers net on the turf, with bare knuckles, instead of on the boards, with hands encased in big gloves. He managed the famous fight between Tom Hyer and Country McCloskey, a few miles up the Hudson, the result of which partly led to the making of the famous match between Hyer and Yankee Suilivan. He was also an acknowledged authority on cock fighting, and served as referee at many mains in his time, his decisions never being disputed, for his knowledge of the sport and the havs governing it was perfect. It was Somerindyke, we believe, who first soid pools at the old race course near Paterson, N. J. He could well be called an all around sporting man, for there was not a branch of 't that he was not well posted in and liked. For some years he was the proprietor of a public house in the Harlem district, but had not been engaged in any kind of business for a long time before his demise.

AUSTIN GIBBONS, the lightweight boxer, of Paterson, N. J., returned to the city from England on Sunday, July 5, accompanied by his brother Jim, who was his manager while abroad. After the fight between Gibbons and Jim Verrall, which the American easily won, he made efforts to effect a match with Bill Reader, considered the best man of his class over there, but was unsuccessful, although he offered every reasonable inducement, and some that he could not have reasonable inducement, and some that he could not have reasonable inducement, and some that he could not have reasonable in ledicement of his birth. Both Austin and his shrewd brother express themselves highly pleased with their treatment while in London, and the former is now after any lightweight in America, Jack McAullife preferred, but no one else excluded. New articles of agreement for the fight between Hall and Fitzsimmons have been drawn up and signed by the interested parties. The original articles stipulated that Frank Shaw should give a purse of $12,000, and that he should have the privilege of deciding between St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn., as the city in which the fight was to take place. Now the contest has been turned over to the Minneapota Club of St. Paul. This organization will take the entire responsibility of the fight, thus relieving Mr. Shaw, and will also select the referee.

race for 46-foot yachts June 30, for a prize offered by the Larchmont Yacht Club. It was a $250 cup for the winner, while to make it interesting $100 in cold cash went to second. There were only three boats in the race, Bayard Thayer's Sayonara, sailed by Capt. Nat Watson; August Belmont's Mineola, sailed by Capt. Harry Huff, and W. O'B. Macdonough's Jessica, sailed by Capt. Harry, but the company of the other two was a trifle too fast for the latter. When the start was made the wind was blowing strongly from cast southeast and the Sound was covered with white caps.

The preparatory signal was given at 11.55. Each yacht had a reef in her mainsail. The Sayonara had her mainsail and jib; her topmast was housed. The Mineola carried her working topsail, jib and mainsail, while the Jessica carried mainsail, working topsail, jib and siaysail. The Mineola was first across the line at 12.00:13, the Jessica followed at 12.01:41 and the Sayonara at 12.02:13. It was a grand day for racing on the Sound, as a spiendid opportunity was afforded for a beat dead to windward for twelve miles. There was a heavy sea on that wet the decks of the three yachts and shook up the Regatta Committee and members of the club on the steamer Dalzell. The Sayonara held on to the north shore, and, coming out, she met and was weathered by the two others, but was close up. The race was a very close and pretty one, the captains of the two leading boats both fighting for the windward position. A number of short tacks were made by each boat, but the Mineola held her position. Mineola was the first to give up the fight, and stood over to Long Island, making a long leg. Sayonara stood on toward Stamford Light, and gained very much by this move. At 1.47 Mineola shook out the reef in her mainsail and went about. Both yachts were then on the starboard tack, standing for the stakeboat anchored off Shippan Point. Sayonara had holsted her topmast and carried her working topsail. She was in the load, and rounded the stake in 2h. 35m. 49s. Mineola followed, a

The annual Cup and People's Regatta held on the Schuyikill River on Saturday afternoon, July 4, was not as successful as it generally had been since its institution. The events forming the programmed id not receive so many entries as had been ex did not receive so many entries as had been expected, several of them being virtual or actual walk overs, the gathering to witness the regata was smaller than customary, and it was almost devoid of excitement, while the wind that blew across the river made the water quite rough and prevented good performances. A summary is given below: Puir cared shells—Won by Valentine and Pinckney, New York A. C.; Myers and Toy, West Philadelphia E. Q. second. Time, 10m. 48s.

dents of Boston on Independence Day. They took place in the Charles River, off the Union Club Boat House.

Three men faced the starter of the professional race, one quarter mile and return. The prizes were $30 and $15. Those who actually competed were John A. Leavitt, Newton; James McClusker, Winthrop, and Swimming Instructor McGee, of the Manhattan Athletic Club of New York. From the start it was clear that McGee was outpaced. McClusker and Leavitt for the first 160yds, were level, then the latter began to draw ahead, but had only gained about three yards when the turn was reached. McGee was a good ten yards behind the leaders. McClusker and Leavitt made a pretty race home, taking stroke for stroke, Leavitt being a length ahead and able to see his man. John A. Leavitt won by 2yds, James McClusker second, McGee a bad third, beaten by 30yds.

The race following was for amateurs—one-eighth of a mile and return. The prizes were gold and silver medals of the value respectively of $15 and $10. James McNair, Boston; George C. Di Fatta, Boston; Charles F. Barrows, Newton; W. H. Sennon, Cambridgeport and Alexander Meffert were the contestants. Meffert led from the start, was 18yds. shead at the turn, and won by Soyds. Barrows was second.

Marcu OFF.—The difficulty experienced by Ed. Hanlan and Wm. O'Connor in securing a boat in season for the time set for the match with Jake Gaudaur and John McKay has involved the necessity of abandoning it, the champion and partner necessarily paying the forfeit, the other high contracting parties refusing to grant the extension of time a-ked for. This is greatly to be regretted, as the race arranged for promised to be an exciting contest.

Eh. Hanlan, the ex-champion sculler of the world, offers to row J. F. Corbet, of Chicago, who recently defeated Dennis Donahue on Canadian waters. He also offers to allow Corbet a start of fifteen seconds in three miles, and make the match for $1,000 a side. Evidently Ned has not lost any of the belief in his still wonderful powers as an oarsman of the highest class that his long succession of victories when at the height of his fame warranted.

SPEEDY AMERICAN CANOEISTS.

Interesting Races of the Atlantic Division of the A. C. A.

The canoeists of the Atlantic Division of the American Canoe Association had good weather for their races at Perth Amboy, N. J., July 3. There was a good breeze all day. The first race should have been a novice sailing race, but as there were no novices to enter it was made a junior sailing race. George L. Metze, of the Ianthe Canoe Club of Newark, took George P. Douglass' new canoe Tempest; W. P. Dodge, of the same club, took L. B. Palmer's canoe, Cricket; E. W. Edinger, of the Crescent Canoe Club, sailed the Sibyl, and W. L.

of Newark, took George P. Douglass' new cance, Tempest; W. P. Dodge, of the same club, took L. B. Palmer's cance, Cricket; E. W. Edinger, of the Crescent Cance Club, sailed the Sibyl, and W. L. Dudley, of the Knickerbocker Cance Club, the Eros. Metze had a large spread of sail, which he handled admirably. He won easily, with Dodge second and Edinger third. Mr. Metze is now a senior. The second event was a paddling race for any cance. The entries were Lincoin B. Palmer, cance Cricket; George P. Douglass, cance Tempest; George L. Metze, cance Club, and E. W. Edinger, Cresent Cance Club, and E. W. Edinger, Cresent Cance Club, and E. W. Edinger, Cresent Cance Club, and for a time it looked as though it was any man's race. The paddlers made spurt after spurt, but still they hung together. There was not a clear length of open water between the boats at any time. Palmer won, with Douglass second, Edinger third, and Metze a close fourth.

In the sailing upset race Donglas and Palmer had a close fight for first place, but after the cances were capsized and righted again, Douglass got the lead and won handly; Palmer was second, P. W. Smythe, cance Torment, third; Dr. O. F. Coe, cance Echo, fourth, and W. L. Dudley, cance Ecos, fight. The man overboard race required that each cance should carry a passenger who should jump out at a signal. The cance was then required to round a buoy and return and pick up the passenger, after which it should be aslied home. This is a new race. Douglass took Metze as a passenger, and Edinger took Dudley. Douglass won casily. The upset paddling race, the last of the day, was won by Palmer, with Douglass second, aud Edinger third.

The final races were contested July 4 in Raritan Bay, off Cheesequade. The first event was a paddling race, 1,000 yards, straight away. The entries were: Lincoin B. Palmer, lanthe Club, cance Tempest; H. S. Parmer, lanthe Club, cance Cricket; George P. Douglass, lanthe Club, cance Tempest. Some fine sailing was done. Palmer crossed the line a winner, closely follow

THE PAVONIA YACHT CLUB held their regatta July 4, at Atlantic Highlands, N. J., the course being to the Government Dock at Sandy Hook, thence to the Southwest buoy and home. The first to start was the Christina, at 4.25:40. There were four classes in the race, which came in as follow: Fanturn, 5.42:25; Avon, 5.45:15; Catrena, 5.56; Falcon, 5.56:10. Al. HAMM, the well known sculler, whose races with some of the leading oarsmen of the country are well remembered, died at his home at Sambro N. S., on June 22. He had been ill with consumption for a considerable period.

ATHLETIC

The Huddersfield Meeting.

We take from The London Referee the tollowing detailed account of the meeting at Huddersfield, June 29, being the first place at which the team of the Manhattan Athletic Club appeared after their arrival in England. This meeting was held before the Manhattan Athletic Club appeared after their arrival in England. This meeting was held before 15,000 spectators, the weather being delightfully fine. Soon after the start the crowd broke into the enciosure and delayed proceedings for about half an hour. The presence of the American athletes undoubtedly proved the great attraction, and they were accorded a good reception, especially Luther Cary, the sprinter, who won his heat in the 120yds. handicap, but was unplaced in the final. Cary, however, took the scratch 220yds. In good style in the fast time of 22%s. D. Basan, of the L. A. C., being second. Of the other members of the Manhattan team, Hallock ran unplaced in the sprint and 220yds, handicaps. A. B. George and J. S. Roddy did not finish in the half mile. M. Remington ran third in the 220yds, scratch. W. T. Young, after looking all over a winner in the mile, was beaten at the finish by Movley, of the Salford Harriers. Roddy ran unplaced in the quarter, in which Dadman, the American half raile champion, scored an easy win. Only two came out for the Northern Counties Quarter Mile Hurdle Championship, viz., Shaw (New Zesland), and Sarre (New York), the former winning somewhat easily in 50%s., which is a record for that distance over three feet hurdles. The meeting proved a great success. Details:

THE ONE HUNDRED YARDS DASH between James Robinson and Thomas Carroll, beth of Lawrence, Mass., took place at the Riding Park June 27 for a purse of $400. The start was by mutual consent. Frank B. Steele was stakeholder and Dennis Halley referee. Both men trained long and hard for the event, and betting on the result was about even, yet the bulk was bet on Robinson. The men were on the track nearly an hour, trying to effect a fair start, and at six o'clock both men got away together. Robinson forged to the fronts everal yards, and, by exertion and amid the shouts of his friends, held the same to the finish. The time announced was 10½-5. The winner is a son of the late Frank Robinson, the noted wrestler, and is a promising athlete and wrestler, Gaelie Football.

The Gaelic Society Football Club will play a match with the Kicklam Football Club upon the grounds of the former, at Tailtin, Woodside, L. I., next Sunday afternoon, July 12, at three o'clock. The Kicklamites are all famous Tipperary players, and are expected to give their opponents, whom it may be said represent "All Ireland," a fierce battle for supremacy. The grounds may be reached by way of Thirty-fourth Street Ferry, thence by Long Island R. R. The Shaurrock Club, of Troy, N. Y., will cross camans with the Gaelic Hurling Club upon the same grounds the following Sunday, July 19. The old Irish sport of hurling is now on the way of a revival in this country, owing to the efforts of the society, and the forthcoming contest with the Troy team is looked forward to with interest by lovers of this fine old sport. afternoon, July 12, at three o'clock. The Cherry Diamond Athletes

The members of the Manhattan Athletic Club in-ternational team, whose trip abroad has been so uniformly successful wherever they have competed, uniformly successful wherever they have competed, performed at the grounds at the Bois de Boulonge, Paris, France, under the suspices of the Racing Club, on Saturday afternoon, July 4, and, as will be seen from the following cablegram, they carried everything before them. This event naturally attracted crowds of French sportsmen, who were most anxious to witness the performances of the American athletes who are now in Paris. The United States Minister, Whitelaw Reid, presided at the meeting. Mr. Reid was surrounded by a number of the leading members of the American colony in Paris. There were also present a number of French notabilities. Among the American ladies who graced the event with their presence were Mrs. Russell Harrison and Mrs. McKee, ladies both of whom attracted a great deal of attention. A fine military band played throughout the meeting, and added a great deal to the day's enjoyment. Context of the conte

The next event was the high jump. It was won by H. S. Hallock, who cleared oft. 11in., breaking the French record.

Luther Cary, having won his heat in the 100 metres dash, then ran in the final, winning the race in 10½ s. beating the French champion, Zevallos.

V. Mapes, a New Yorker, but not, like the other winners, a member of the Manhattan Club, secured the next prize. Mapes won the long jump with a leap of 22ft. 5in.

The Americans had thus far won every event, and the Frenchmen bestowed unstinted applause upon them. Cary's running was a revelation to the sportsmen of Parls, and they were not slow in applauding him. Later on C. A. J. Queckberner gave an exhibition of hammer throwing and shot putting. This display of strength and skill was quite a novelty to the athletes of France. Queckberner put the shot 36ft. 2½ in., and threw the hammer 123ft. 6in. He also threw a 66fb weight 30ft. 6in.

J. S. Roddy followed, coming in first in the mile run. Time, 4m. 2036s. Borel, a Frenchman, gave Roddy a hard race, but was finally beaten by the American s superior endurance. Roddy ran splendidly and caused a scene of wild enthusiasm, the crowd breaking through the barriers and carrying him in triumpa from the field. From another dispatch we learn that A. B. George, W. T. Young and E. L. Sarre, members of the team, started for home on the Majestic, leaving Liverpool on July 1, and are therefore due in this city now. Ed. Lange, who, it is remembered, was disqualified in the walk at the championship meeting at Manchester, did not accompany the team to the French capital, but is passing a few days in London.

A HURLING COMPETION took place on Boston Common, July 4, between the teams of the Bostons and Shamrocks. Everybody is on the streets at the modern Athens on the day we celebrate, and about twenty thousand witnessed the sport, which was both exciting and amusing. The result of the contest was a victory for the Bostons by two goals to nothing.

AQUATIC.

YACHTING ON THE SOUND.

The American Yacht Club had good racing weath er for the regatta arranged for sloops and catboats on Monday, July 6. The weather was clear, while the wind came strong from west by south at the time the signal for the start was given. There were eleven starters, of which number four were fortysix footers, the race being a special one for sailing yachts, and a special prize of a cup of the value of six footers, the race being a special one for sailing yachts, and a special prize of a cup of the value of $250 being the award of the winner among the larger boals. This brought to the starting point the forty-sixers Mineola, Sayonara, Jessica and Nautius, and but for an accident to the unfortunate Mineola, when she and the Sayonara were very close together, it is likely that a different tale would have been told when the race was over. The course of this class was to and around the mark in Hempstead Harbor, from there to and around a mark off Captain's Island, and back, the distance being twenty miles and the direction from which the wind came making it a reaching battle for all the boats each way. With the exception of the Mineola the yachts went off with mainsails close reefed, and the craft named, which was sailed by Capt. Har, naturally assumed the lead at once. The order at the Hempstead stakeboat was Mineola, Jessica, Sayonara, Nautilus. They jibed around the buoy and started for Captain's Island, during the run to which mark the Sayonara gained second place, but still could not gain on the leader, which kept her scuppers under constantly, added to her lead. The order of rounding the captain's Island mark was: Mineola, Sayonara, Jessica, Nautilus, the leader having over three minutes on the Sayonara, while there was a difference of but twenty-five seconds between second and third and over two minutes separated third and fourth, the race being close and highly interesting so far. At the Hempstead Buoy on the was beaute the order and time were as follow. second and third and over two minutes separated third and fourth, the race being close and highly interesting so far. At the Hempstead Buoy on the way home the order and time were as follow: Mincola, at 1.37:04; Sayonara, 1.39:24; Jessica, 1.41:25; Nauthus, 1.48:00, the latter, it will be perceived, having lost much distance during this leg of the course. When the boats were about half way between the Hempstead Buoy and Milton Point, on the run home, the Mineola having about the same advantage, with an excellent prospect of naintaining it, her long straining mast suapped short of about twenty feet above deck, thus knocking her chances for victory to smithereens. The disabled yachi was towed into port. This left victory a certainity for the Sayonara, which bowied gayly along, winning the coveted cup. This is the second time that the unlucky Boston craft has cracked her mast this season, the first similar missiap having occurred during the regasta of the New York Yacht Club. The performance of the Jessica was not up to expectations, but she managed to secure second prize on time allowance. The official summary tollows:

The Boston Sailing Regatta

The annual sailing regatta for which the city fathers offer the prizes came off at Boston, Mass., on the Fourth of July, and was participated in by the usual big fleet of small yachts. The squally weather and strong winds proved trying to some of the little fellows, but on the whole the regatta was a success. In the third class centreboards the Pigrin won first prize and the Nimbus second. The Hilda won in the keel class and the Stramaer second. Harbinger won in her class, Strideaway being second and Minnie R. third. In the other classes, Wapita, Good Luck, Seabird, Irene and Swordfish were the winners. One hundred boats entered, but only fortyone started.

Match in Whitehalls.

Some time ago August Staabe, a restaurant proprietor, and John Struck, a member of "the fines." both taking pride in their ability of propeiling Whitehall boats, such as are used by the boatmen of the Battery, engaged in a discussion which resulted in the making of a match to settle the question of superiority at the sport. The stakes were $100 a side, and the race came off on the Fourth of July. I attracted a large throng of residents around the Battery, where both contestants have long resided. The course was around fieldoe's Island, and the water was quite rough, while the wind was strong, calculated to test the staying powers of the principals. It was a hard pull, Staabe leading around the island, but being outrowed on the return trip, Struck finishing two lengths to the fore in 1h. 10m. both taking pride in their ability of propelling

YONKERS SCULLERS OUT FOR GLORY.—The Pallsade Boat Club had a gala time at Yonkers, N. Y., July 4. The aquatic events took place in the afternoon over a one mile course off the boat house, with the exception of the first race, which was three quarters of a mile. The singles for novices was won by P. B. Rossire. The four oared shell race for the Howard medal was won by the Columbia crew as follows: P. B. Rossire, C. C. Rossire, W. W. Scrugham and B. M. Oxley. The eight oared shell race was won by the Palisades. The fourth event was a game of water polo between teams of six men captained by C. P. Marsden and J. B. Monat, and was won by the former.

Boston's Rowing Regatta.

The leading sporting feature of the annual enthu siastic celebration of the Fourth of July at Boston, Mass., is the professional and amateur rowing regatta, which takes place in the morning on the Charles River, over the course which for many years follow their movements during the season. same scenes were enacted last Saturday as have been witnessed there season after season. The old stone wall lining the course, together with other points of vantage, from the boat house of the Union Club down almost to the new Harvard Bridge, were crowded with enthusiastic lovers of the sport, the ladies being numerously represented, and all manifesting the greatest interest in the result of the events constituting this annual fixture. The weather was clear, with a pleasantly fresh wind, which did not greatly disturb the water, so that it was in very good condition for the sport in hand. The races were participated in by well known scullers and crews, sithough perhaps the proportion of professionals from other places was not as large as in former years. A summary of the contests is given:
Eight Oarbed Markell's Shellis-Shawmit Boat Club: M. I. Coleman (bow), T. J. Colbert, E. O. Hersen, Steve Clougherty, William Leary, H. D. Murray, G. H. Mitchell, Frank Giblin (stroke), W. Mitchell (coxswain), first, in 8m. 44s., the distance being a mile and a half straightaway; Bradford. Boat Club second, by half a length only, and the Crescent Boat Club third, ten feet behind. This close fluish served to excite the spectators to a high pitch, and they applianded vigorously.

PROFESSIONAL SINGLE SCULLS, three milea-George H. Hosmer first, in 20m. 5s.; James A. Ten Eyek second, by four lengths; John J. Joyce third, ten lengths away; Erastus D. Roogers fourth, good three lengths behind. It was an easy race for Hosmer.

AMATEUR JUNIOR SINGLE SCULLS, two miles—D. stone wall lining the course, together with other ten lengths away; Erastus D. Rogers fourth, good three lengths behind. It was an easy race for Hosmer.

AMATEUR JUNIOR SINGLE SCULIS, two miles—D. J. Sullivan first, in 15m. 35s.; Edward T. Hayes second, by two lengths; L. Calman beaten off. The latter never had a chance from the first stroke, while Hayes was the leader nearly all the way, but was rowed down towards the close.

LOCAL SCULLERS' RACE, three miles—Jere Casey first, in 22m. 17s.; P. J. Donavan second, by eight lengths; W. F. Conley third, thirty lengths away. The other starters were, figuratively speaking, beaten out of sight. The race was so poor, as to be unworthy of description.

TWELVE OARED BARGES, for amateurs—Lafayette Social and Athletic Club. first, in 15m. 15a., the distance being two miles; West End Boat Club second, by a length and a haif; Everett Boat Club third, many lengths off.

PROFESSIONAL FOUR OARED WORKING BOATS, three miles—J. A. Ten Eyck (bow), Erastus P. Rogers, John J. Joyce and Jere Casey (stroke), first, in 19m. 37s.; Taylor Casey (bow), William Conly, P. Conley and George H. Hosmer (stroke), second, four lengths away. For part of the journey the race was a very good one, owing to the closeness of the four crews engaged, but the latter part of the contest was devoid of interest.

Fast Steaming.

The steamship El Sol, on her return trip from New Orieans recently, made the fastest trip ever accomplished between that port and this city. Leaving that port on Saturday, June 27, at 11.40 A. M., the vessel arrived at her dock here at 1.15 A. M., Jun y, making the run from dock to dock in 4 days, 12 hours and 35 minutes; from bar to bar in 4d. 4h. Abm., deducting one hour for difference in time; but no deduction was made for time taken in puting off pilot at the Pass, or boarding officer at New York Quarantine. El Sol now carries the horns.

THE FOURTH at Hackenback, N. Y., was celebrated in lively style on the Oritani Field Club grounds. In Whitehall doubles, I. J. Biair and Fred Banta were first; awimming, Uncas Richter first; cance, double, J. S. C. Wells and L. F. Sage first. Tub race, F. B. Sage, first. Sea horse race, F. B. Sage, first. Racine boats, double, J. S. C. Wells and L. F. Sage first. A akiff, containing Miss Dalsy Elliott, of New York; Albert Grossback, of Brooklyn and G. G. Ackerman, Hackensack, was upset during the races. The young men were unable to swim, but were picked up by boats. The young lady was rescued by Myers Elair, who jumped overboard and supported her ill nelp was at hand.

The liveliest spot on the Communipaw shore of till help was at hand.

The liveliest spot on the Communipaw shore of New York Bay, July 4, was in and about the cosey quarters of the Dauntiess Yacht Club. The annual members' regatta look piace over a triangular course on New York Bay, followed by a reception. The yacht Yidal, 24 feet long, and owned by Mesers. Royal and Reyno'ds, won the handsome slik pennant, emblematic of the club championship.

The Oyster Bay Yacht Cleus' Fourth of July regata was postponed to a later date, owing to the death of Alfred Roosevelt, who was an active member of the club.

WHEELING.

A New Bicycle Record Reported.

George K. Barrett, of the Chicago 'Cycling Club, is credited with baving made a remarkable record is credited with having made a remarkable record, July 4, at the meet of the Illinois division at Rook ford. The timers maintain that Mr. Barrett traveled his distance in the half mile safety championship race in 1:10%, beating the world's record by one fifth of a second. Further, that he covered the last half mile in the mile handicap safety in 57%s.. or thirteen seconds faster than any other person ever went the distance.

THE TWELFTH ANNUAL MEET of the League of American Wheelmen will be held at Detroit, Mich., July 16-18. The great twenty-five mile road race will take place on the afternoon of the first day. It will be run over the Pontlac-Detroit course. On July 17 the programme is as follows: One mile novice, safety; one mile novice, ordinary; one mile club handicap, safety; half mile L. A. W. championship, ordinary; one mile L. A. W. championship, safety; three mile lap, ordinary; quarter mile L. A. W. championship, safety. On July 18 the following is the programme: One mile, three minute class, ordinary; one mile, three minute class, safety; one mile L. A. W. championship, ordinary; one mile handicap, safety; quarter mile L. A. W. championship, ordinary; one mile lab, safety, and one mile velocipede. All races will be governed by League rules. Entries close on July 8. The prizes are worth in the aggregate $2,000.

THE WHEEL IN NEW JERSEY.—The Watersing (N. J.) Bicycle Club, a new organization, held their initial race meeting on the Fourth of July, and a goodly crowd gathered to witness the two events to which the programme was limited. Result: Five mile handicap, on the road—Jacob Euhl, 4m. start, first, in 22m. 23s.; Harry Downer, 3m., second, 21m. 34s.; Walter Ellor, scratch, third, 20m. 21s.; Arthur, 30s., fourth; Charles Ellor, 30s., fifth. Two miles, on the road—Arthur Hyde first, Herbert Ellor second and John Emelton third.

TBR OLD ESSEX BICYCLE CLUB has come to the front once more, and is now on a good working basis. This club is one of the charter members of the L. A. W. At their last meeting the following officers were elected: President, William S. Righter; vice president, Frederick Keer; secretary and treasurer, C. H. McMahon; captain, E. E. Sargent; first lieutenant, Herbert W. Knight; second lieutenant, A. Hedges. Executive committee—A. Judson Clark, Samuel N. Atwater, and T. Bird Dixie. The club has decided to retain its membership in the L. A. W.

I. A. W.
PERSIDENT DUNN, of the League of American Wheelmen, has appointed George S. Atwater of Washington, chairman of the national racing board. Atwood was appointed a member of the board last February, while Charles E. Randell, of Chicago, was chairman. He filled the vacancy caused by the removal of Randell. The fifth member of the board has not yet been selected. A Western man will probably be selected to fill Atwater's position.

Position.

REINSTATING PROFESSIONALS.—At the rale in which the Racing Board of the League of American Wheelmen are reinstating the disqualified riders, it is the general opinion that there will not be a professional left by the close of the season. The announcement has just been made by Chairman Abbolt Bassett that, by unanimous consent of the members of the board, D. J. Spangler has been reinstated as an amateur.

.... A quartet of old friends, to settle a long stand in dispute regarding their superiority as quoti pitchers, visited brick White's quoting grounds at South Brooklyn, N. Y., July 2, and for a couple of hours there was a merry clicking of the iron rings. The contestants were Harry Wright and John Dawson against Daniel McPhillips and James Jackson. At first it was agreed to play an exbibition game only, but the team became so worked over the affair that, when they stepped into the ring prepared to play, everybody was perfectly willing to put up a little on the result, and $2 was the amount on each game. Very surprisingly Wright and Dawson showed unsual strength and accuracy, and, barring the third game, McPhillips and Jackson did not have a ghost of a chance. Not satisfied with their defeat, Mc-Phillips and Jackson have challenged the winners to play the same character of a game over again for a wine supper. A quartet of old friends, to settle a long stand

... The Irishmen were in their glory afternoon of July 4, at Erastina, S. I., the occasion being a huriling match between the teams of the Irish-American A. C., and the Limerick Guards, champions of Philadelphia. The game started, at 4 45 P. M., the Irish-Americans having the east goal, against the wind. The contest for every point was well fought, but the score at the end of the first half was: I. A. A. C., 14 points; Limerick Guards, 3. 'Despite the gigantic efforts of the Philadelphia team the Irish-Americans continued adding to their score, winning by 2 goals and 17 points to 4 points for the Limerick Guards.

.... The final match for second prizes in the doubles of the Central Park Spring championship tennis tonrament was played in this city July 4. This completed the most successful tourney ever held at Central Park, the prize winners being as follow: Championship trophy, singles, Dr. Theodore I. Townsend; first prize, singles, J. P. Paret; second prize, singles, E. P. Fischer; championship and first prizes in doubles, E. P. Fischer and W. I. A. Braun; second prize, doubles, J. P. Paret and O. M. Bostwick.

.... The third annual Spring tournament of the Union Croquet Club, of this city, came to an end July 8. Lucien W. Pullam won first prize; John H. Weish, second prize; Dr. A. J. Smita, third prize, and W. M. Haight, fourth prize. Mr. Pullam won 20 games and lost 2, Mr. Weish won 18 games and lost 4, Dr. Smith won 17 games and lost 5, W. M. Haight won 13 games and lost 9. Mr. Weish allowed every player in the tournament, except Mr. Haight, from 6 to 14 points in each game. Haight and Weish played scratch, 32 points to a game.

... The regular monthly shoot of the Central Gun Club, of Long Branch, was held July 2, on the new grounds of the club, near Branchport, N. J. Each man shot at ten birds. Philip Dally Jr., killed all ten-Frederick Beale, Charles Woolley and Daniel Slo-cum killed nine each.

... The Orange (N. J.) tennis tournament came to an end on July 6. Winners: Gentlemen's singles—Final round: W. A. Larned beat C. A. Gould, 6—3, 0—6—2. Gentlemen's doubles—Final round: W. A. Larned and C. Morrison beat C. M. Hamilton and R. M. Miles Jr., 6—3, 6—2, 4—6, 7—5.
